Negotiations To Save Nation From Bad Situation

HOLD DISCUSSION

Committees Are To Be Consulted By Leaders

WELSHMEN BALK

Condition Brighter But Danger Of Trouble Still Exists

(Reuter's Service)

London, Sept. 27.—The joint conference of coal-owners and miners sat for three hours this morning. The subject of discussion was the cause of reduction of output and the means of securing increased output. The conference then adjourned until tomorrow for the purpose of enabling the members to consult their respective committees.

It is understood that the negotiations are proceeding in a very friendly manner and there are grounds for the hope that a mutually satisfactory settlement of the dispute may be reached almost immediately. It is expected that a definite decision will be submitted to the National Conference of Miners' Delegates in London on September 30 for acceptance.

WELSH MINERS BALK

Meanwhile, however, an intransigent spirit is making itself evident in South Wales. A meeting of the Executive Council of the South Wales Miners' Federation at Cardiff today passed a resolution, declaring that, in view of the very general protests from the districts against committing the miners in the present negotiations to future regulation of wages by output, the Council had decided to telegraph to the Welsh representatives on the Committee of the Miners' Federation of Great Britain, stating that the Council was unanimously of the opinion that the present demand for an increase of wages should be settled and the whole matter of the consolidation of present wages and the method of regulating future changes should be subject to investigation and further consultation with the whole body of workmen.

SITUATION BRIGHTER

London, Sept. 27.—The coal situation is brighter tonight than it has been for some weeks, much to the public relief. General satisfaction is manifest among the owners and miners at the prospect of the negotiations reaching a lasting settlement. The belief is confidently entertained that the datum line will be fixed at tomorrow's conference.

In this connection, Lord Aberconway, the Chairman of the Sheepbridge Colliery, speaking at a meeting of the company today, anticipated that the line would be approximately 240,000,000 tons, which was well below what the men had produced in the past. It is understood he said, that the miners are anxious that the datum line shall be so determined as to secure on the present output the advance of two shillings, which they have been claiming. But it is quite likely that they will not adhere to their claim in view of he fundamental underlying principle of the conference that whatever extra pay the miners get above their present earnings will be accompanied by increased output, which will repay the coal-consuming community for the concession.

SMILLIE PRAISED

Lord Aberconway mentioned that the output per man, working on the face at the Sheepbridge Colliery in 1914 was 750 tons, last year 668 tons and 561 tons during the current year.

In tribute to Mr. Smillie, he said that in the way he had handled the matter at the finish he had played the game. "Things might have been very different, if he had not," added Lord Aberconway.

London, Sept. 27.—The leaders of the Transport workers have circularised the affiliated unions, requesting further powers on the ground that the coal crisis is by no means over and that positive action of a strike character may face them during the present week.

RUSSIANS IN PROTEST OVER CHINA ORDER

Tientsin Residents Have Placed Themselves On Record As To Ruling

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tientsin, Sept. 29.—At a crowded meeting of Russian residents at the Russian Club last night, after a prolonged discussion, which lasted until after midnight, and numerous speeches, a resolution was carried to send a protest to the Chinese President, complaining that the decree of September 23 had resulted in the violation of several treaties. And of the rights and interests of the Russian people, residing in China, and that, in particular, the national pride of the Russians had suffered from the order that the flag on the Municipal Buildings should be replaced by the Chinese flag, which act in itself constituted an annulment of certain sovereign rights of Russians in China.

Good Business Is Looked For In U.S.

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, September 26.—Statistics Committee of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States predicts good business for the remainder of the year in spite of some disturbing factors in the outlook.

The Committee says that buying in August was liberal but on a sober basis as needs, as contracted with the speculative purchasing in July.

EXCHANGE DEALS LEAD TO FAILURE OF ITALY PLUNGER

(Reuter's Service)

Boston, September 26.—By order of the authorities the Cosmopolitan Trust Company, which has deposits amounting to $5,000,000 and branches abroad, has been closed.

This is the fifth banking concern closed in Boston since the arrest on August 12 of the Italian financier, Mr. Charles Ponzi, on a charge of larceny.

Mr. Ponzi claimed that he could by the manipulation of international coupons return to his clients 50 percent on their money in ninety days. His liabilities are reported to be $7,000,000.

Governor Coolidge democrat candidate for vice president, on August 18 at Boston issued an order to all banks of the State calling upon them to disclose without delay whether they have been doing any advertising through the agency conducted by State Treasurer Fred J. Burrell. This action was a direct result of the disclosure that Burrell had $125,000 of the State's funds in the Hanover Trust Company at the time its doors were closed, following the Ponzi collapse.

"I am not going to approve banks as State depositories that continue to employ Mr. Burrell as their advertising agent," Governor Coolidge said. "While I do not know of anything illegal about it, it certainly makes a

CAPITAL NEEDED TO PROMOTE BUSINESS FOR FRENCH TRADE

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Paris, Sept. 28.—Addressing the International Financial Conference at Brussels yesterday morning, Mr. Brand, the Vice-President of the British delegation, showed that it was necessary to procure capital for private enterprise and that it was equally urgent to reduce State expenses. He condemned State support of business enterprises and declared that it was of the greatest importance that businessmen should have confidence in themselves.

Mr. Brand was followed by the Belgian Premier, M. de La Croix, who addressed the Conference on the subject of a levy on capital.

Lord Chalmers (Great Britain) emphasised that it was necessary to work hard, to exercise self-restraint and to economise.

AFTERNOON SESSION

At the afternoon sitting, after M. Vittorio Vicci of the Italian delegation on grounds of international brotherhood had urged that nations should mutually share their supplies of raw materials, M. Avenol (France) read a paper on the economic and financial situation of France. He said that the restoration of the district ravaged by the war, was already showing tangible results in all districts. 1,500,000 hectares of land had already been brought again under cultivation. France, M. Aveno added, had thus decreased her demand for wheat from abroad.

In conclusion the speaker expressed the hope that the Conference would be able to find definite solutions of all the problems presented to it.

LITHUANIAN WAR IS ON DECLARES OFFICIAL REPORT

Grodno Capture Confirmed And Thousand Prisoners Are Being Held

(Reuter's Service)

London, Sept. 27.—A Reuter message from Warsaw confirms the reported capture of Grodno by the Poles. It was the sequel of heavy fighting, in which the Poles secured a great number of prisoners and much war material.

Later.—Poland appears to be definitely at war with Lithuania. The latest Polish communique reports the occupation of two Lithuanian towns, and the capture of a thousand prisoners and several guns.

The communique describes this as a counteraction against the Lithuanians, "owing to the latter's co-operation with the Bolshevik bombardment of Polish positions, and their general attitude of aggression."

The Poles are scoring further successes against the Bolsheviks, and claim to have crossed the Niemen and taken 3,000 prisoners.

AIMED AT REDS

London, Sept. 27.—It is reported from Warsaw that the Poles have captured Grodno, which is supposedly under the protection of the League of Nations. It is pointed out that only another month is available for campaigning before the winter stops operations. This new move on the part of the Poles is said to be preparatory to an offensive against the Red Army, concentrated in the Minsk-Lida sector, as, unless their destruction is achieved before the winter, these forces will be used to crush General Wrangel, leaving the Bolsheviks free for a fresh attempt to overrun Poland in the spring.

TROTSKY'S VIEW

New York, September 27.—The London correspondent of the Associated Press telegraphs that a correspondent of the Manchester Guardian quotes Trotsky as saying that, if the Poles do not accept the Russian terms at the Riga Conference, "he will convice the most backward peasants in the darkest corners of Russia that peace is impossible without a fight to a finish."

Paris, Sept. 27.—M. Bourgeois, the President of the Council of the League of Nations, has telegraphed to the Polish Government, expressing surprise at the sending of a Polish ultimatum to Lithuania.

He adds that Lithuania has been requested to ask the Bolsheviks to evacuate Lithuanian territory, while Poland is asked to allow Lithuania the necessary time in which to carry out this evacuation.

COMPLICATED POSITION

London, September 25.—The Lithuanian-Polish tangle is becoming still more complicated. The Poles have sent a note to the League of Nations, denouncing the Lithuanian armistice on account of the Bolsheviks massing troops in Lithuanian territory against the Poles, and have begun a new offensive again the Lithuanians, and have occupied Kopociowo.

Simultaneously the Lithuanians have appealed to the League of Nations, requesting immediate intervention to stop the new Polish aggression.

MILLERAND GETS ENDORSEMENT OF PRESS IN FRANCE

Papers Almost Unanimous In Expressing Satisfaction After Election

IS OPTIMISTIC VIEW

Swift Reshaping Of Cabinet With Leygues Premier Generally Approved

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, September 24 (delayed).—All the newspapers with the exception of a few Socialist organs are unanimous in expressing the keenest satisfaction at the outcome of the Presidential election, which, they say, conclusively shows that France, repudiating party strifes and wrangles, has adopted a policy of order, work and social progress.

The Gaulois perceives the dawn of a new Republican era.

The Journal writes: "The imposing majority given to M. Millerand, invests him with power to carry on the task which he had undertaken as Premier. France now has a head, whose persuasive and firm authority will ensure Governmental action of harmonious continuity."

APPROVE ELECTION

The leading provincial newspapers join in with the Parisian press to view the election as a most fortunate event and concur with the latter in regarding M. Millerand as the man best qualified to uphold the prestige of France and to ensure her prompt economic rehabilitation, and in eulogising the clear-mindedness and will-power of the new President, who as Premier secured to France the benefits resulting from the Peace Treaty and stopped short the onrush of anarchy, thus ensuring to France her present unparalleled tanquillity amid disturbed Europe.

Public opinion in Paris and in the provinces is unanimous in viewing the election as prompted solely by patriotism and the spirit of national union, as a fitting answer to popular aspirations and as boding well for the future.

NEEDED BY NATION

The Alsatian, Lorraine and devastated region papers are most sanguine in greeting the elevation to the highest office in the Republic of the man, who in a few months' tenure of office as High Commissioner succeeded in reviving, reorganising and putting into time again with the Mother Country the provinces, bowed for fifty years beneath the Prussian yoke.

A leading paper in the north of France pertinently sums up the unanimous impression, stating that M. Millerand has not taken up his residence in the Elysee Palace in the ordinary way but has actually been "pushed there" by a consensus of national opinion, the nation feeling that a strong man was needed.

PARLIAMENT CONFIDENT

Paris, Sept. 26.—Most of the newspapers today comment on the favorable reception which the Presidential message and the declaration of the new Cabinet met with both in the Senate and in the Chamber of Deputies. The same leading thought runs through the Presidential message and the Cabinet's declaration and, according to the Gaulois, seems essentially to be the co-ordination of Governmental action.

"Obviously," writes the Petit Parisien, "Parliament still reposes its fullest confidence in M. Millerand's policy, which the new Cabinet will make its own."

M. Millerand has received a great number of congratulatory messages, including a very cordial message from King George, expressing conviction that the sincere amity so happily uniting France and Great Britain, would be maintained and strengthened during M. Millerand's tenure of office and assuring the new President that His Majesty would do everything in his power to co-operate to that end. The King's message concluded with the wish that France would soon be restored to the prosperity to which her sacrifices for the cause of humanity entitled her. Queen Wilhelmina, King Alfonso, Signor Giolitti and Mr. Lloyd George also sent telegrams warmly congratulating M. Millerand.

CABINET APPROVED

Paris, September 25.—The remarkable ease and rapidity with which the usually elaborate operation of reshaping the Cabinet was carried out in a few hours is favorably commented upon by most of the French newspapers, who are unanimous in their approval of the choice of M. Levgues as Premier.

The Premier in his declaration in the Chamber today stated that he would continue the policy of his predecessor and would see to it that all treaties were carried out.

Famine Relief Body At Tientsin Will Aid Work Started Here And Peking

American Minister At Capital Presides At First Formal Meeting Of Committee Formed To Give Aid To Starving Millions In North

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tientsin, Sept. 29.—The Tientsin Famine Relief Committee has decided to take steps to co-operate with the efforts being made by the Peking and Shanghai Committees. A prominent resident in Tientsin, Mr. Chang Po-ling, is leaving for Shanghai today to make arrangements for such co-operation there.

(China Press Correspondence)

Peking, September 24.—The first formal meeting of the American National Committee on Famine Relief was presided over at four o'clock this afternoon by Minister Charles R. Crane. One member was added to the original seven, Mr. W. Morgan Palmer of the Salt Gabelle in Changchun, making a committee of eight.

ALL TO CO-OPERATE

The committee elected Mr. H. C. Faxon to be its chairman and Dr. George Wilder secretary. Mr. Faxon and Robert R. Gaily of the Y.M.C.A. were asked to represent the American committee on meetings of the International Committee, to which Dr. Grey of the British Legation and Mr. S. E. Lucas are the British delegates.

The committee endorsed the proposals made by the British committee recently that the International Committee co-operate with the Chinese organisations and devise some way of joint holding of funds, and share in the accounting for same; that the International Committee open an Information Bureau; and that the Dean of the Diplomatic Corps be requested to give official endorsement to the International Committee.

Mr. W. Morgan Palmer is leaving tonight for Hankow to negotiate with Tuchun Wang Chuan-yuan of Hupeh on behalf of the Salt Gabelle for the release of salt revenues which the Tuchun has retained.

TROOPS CALLED OUT TO QUELL IRISH REBELS

(Reuter's Service)

Belfast, Sept. 27.—A wild week-end necessitated the calling out of two battalions. Soldiers and armored cars patrolled the streets and helped to quell outbreaks.

There were two separate attacks against police patrols on Saturday night. The assailants jumped out of cover and fired point-blank without warning. After this firing spread to several districts.

It transpires that the three civilians, who were killed yesterday, were shot in their homes, apparently as reprisals. It is declared that two of them were known to be Sinn Feiners.

Intense excitement prevailed throughout yesterday when the city police for the first time were armed with rifles. Rioting was resumed and continued throughout the day, the rival crowds attacking one another with stones and revolvers. The trams were stopped. Late at night, however, order was restored.

There were at least eighteen persons wounded during the day.

McSWEENEY A MIRACLE

New York, September 27.—The London correspondent of the Associated Press states that Archbishop Mannix has visited Lord Mayor McSweeney. After his visit the Archbishop said: "I find him a veritable miracle."

FRENCH CROP OF WHEAT IS GREATER THAN ANTICIPATED

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, September 28.—Though not as good as at first expected, the French wheat harvest of 1920 is nevertheless 25 percent about that for last year, when France was forced to buy 40,000,000 quintals of wheat or wheat substitutes from abroad.

As a result of the satisfactory harvest this year France will not have to buy more than 10,000,000 quintals of wheat or substitutes from abroad. Moreover the arrivals of wheat in French ports are now larger and more regular.

CAPTURE OF BOKHARA

(Reuter's Service)

London, Sept. 27.—The capture of Bokhara by the Bolsheviks, which was announced from Moscow three weeks ago, was, it transpires only effected after desperate fighting, in which both sides lost heavily. According to despatches from India, positions were won and lost repeatedly, and it was only after the Red command had been compelled to draw on its reserves that the city was captured.

After its capture, the city was given over to loot. The Emir of Bokhara, with the remnants of his army fled to the Afghan frontier. The Bolsheviks executed a number of inhabitants, and took others to Tashkent for trial.

G.O.P. CHIEF ADMITS HE IS MINUS PLAN

Senator Johnson's Statement That League Will Be Dropped By U.S. If Republican Is Elected Is Confirmed By Candidate

(U. S. Naval Radio)

Baltimore, September 28.—"I am perfectly frank when I say that I am without a single program, constructive in character, regarding an association of nations!"

This remarkable statement was made here today by Senator Warren G. Harding, Republican candidate for the Presidency, in answer to a heckler who demanded to know whether or not the speaker was in favor of "scrapping" the League of Nations.

Senator Harding invited the propounder of the question to join him on the platform and debate the League issue, but there was no response. The Republican candidate then made the statement quoted above.

(Reuter's Service)

PROTECTIVE TARIFF

Baltimore, September 27.—Senator Warren Harding, in the course of a speech here today, promised that, if he were elected, he would pursue a merchant marine policy, which would ensure accessibility to all the world's markets, linked with a protective tariff system, as promised in last session's Merchant Marine Bill. He said that the United States must beware of allowing itself to be flooded with imports from the debtors of the nation.

JAPAN GIVEN ADVANTAGE

Chicago, September 27.—Senator Harry S. New of Indiana, in the course of a statement, published here today, said that President Wilson had conceded to Japan the paramount position in Asia by means of the agreement, concluded by Mr. Lansing, when Secretary of State, with regard to the Marianne and Caroline Islands, "which now bar way to the Philippines."

The President had yielded to Japan, "thinking of every possible way of surrendering our friend, the Republic of China, to our antagonist, the Empire of Japan."

The President had yielded American interests, policies, commerce and safety many times to Japan and had never secured in return a single concession from Japan and now Japan demanded that he should settle the California question in her favor "with threats of serious complications, if he did not."

"The supine, timid policy of the Democrats," Senator New concluded, "has brought us to the danger of open conflict."

Consortium Papers Are Sent To Peking

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Sept. 28.—The Legations concerned this morning sent the documents connected with the Consortium agreement, to the Chinese Government.

The dossier covers the discussions and transactions between the various banking groups since the time of the Lansing-Ishii agreement.

The dossier was forwarded confidentially with a covering note, signed by the British, American, French and Japanese Ministers. No mention was made of the conditions under which the Japanese joined the Consortium.

The documents cover Mr. Thomas Lamont's negotiations at Tokio and mention is made of a forthcoming meeting of various banking groups in America in October.

The covering note expresses the sympathy with which the various bankers regard China and their desire to assist her.

New Engineering Company Launches Sixth Steamer For Norwegian Owners

Refreshments Are Served And Addresses Given After The Dukat, 2,000 Ton Cargo Carrier, Is Sent Down Ways Yesterday

The steamer Dukat, a 2,000-ton cargo carrier and sixth of eight vessels being built here for Norwegian owners by the New Engineering and Shipbuilding Company was sent down the ways yesterday afternoon in the presence of an interested gathering. The vessel was christened by Mrs. Nilsen and after the launching the guests who witnessed the launching were invited to a meeting room in one of the company's buildings where a number of addresses were delivered and refreshments were served.

The address of Mr. A. W. Burkill who was the first speaker was as follows:

"Ladies and Gentlemen.—In the absence of Mr. Arnhold, our Chairman of directors, it becomes my privilege to propose the toast of success to the s.s. Dukat, the graceful launching of which vessel you have just witnessed performed by Mrs. Nilsen.

"The Dukat is the sixth steamer built and engined at these works for the same owners, Messrs. Bruusgaard Kiosterud and Co., of Norway, and I trust this vessel will prove equally satisfactory to them as her five sister ships, some of which have left these shores and are now plying their trade in European waters.

"It is not my intention this afternoon to expound to you again the importance of the shipbuilding industry to Shanghai, as on looking round I see many who honored us with their presence at the last launching barely three months ago and I accept that as a fair indication of your approval of the views I then expressed regarding the future of Shanghai as a great shipbuilding center. On that occasion Mr. Steckmest, the Norwegian Consul-General, in replying on behalf of the owners, paid this company a very high compliment respecting our achievements, and if I may say so, that is the best form of reward all connected in the construction of these vessels can wish, as they embodied a genuine recognition of the capabilities of these works and these remarks I believe are justly reflected today in the vessel which is the occasion of this celebration.

"In expressing thanks to all those who have so ably assisted us to obtain this result I would specially mention the surveyors for the Norwegian Bureau Veritas, Messrs. Parker, Rielley and Simmons, Mr. O. Lied and Captain Nilsen, the Owners' Superintendents, as also Mr. Sem of Messrs. O. Thoresen, the Owners' Representatives here.

"I will now ask you to charge your glasses and join me in drinking good luck, prosperity and success to the s.s. Dukat and her owners, which toast I will couple with the name of Mr. Sem."

MR. SEM SPEAKS

Mr. F. Sem said:—Ladies and Gentlemen: We have again had the pleasure of witnessing the successful launching of a vessel built by the New Engineering and Shipbuilding Works to the order of Bruusgaard, Kiostorud and Company, for whom my firm are the local agents, and on behalf of these owners, I beg to thank Mr. Burkill for his kind wishes for them and the Dukat.

"I was, unfortunately, unable to be present when the sister-ship Dux was launched a few months ago, and as Mr. Burkill has just referred to the remarks of our Consul-General, Mr. Steckmest, on that occasion, I wish to say that I fully endorse what Mr. Steckmest then said.

"I have no doubt, that the Dukat will be as good a ship as her five sisters, which are now trading, and in thanking the builders for the good work performed, I wish to refer also to the very friendly and pleasant relations that have always existed between the builders and the owners and their representatives, our thanks to everybody connected with the work.

"Ladies and Gentlemen, I will now ask you to join me in drinking to the continued success of the New Engineering and Shipbuilding Works, which toast I will couple with the name of Mr. Burkill."

This toast having been honored Mr. Burkill said the next and pleasantest part of the ceremony—for him, at any rate—was the making of a small presentation to Mrs. Nilsen on behalf of the New Engineering Works and in expressing to her their grateful thanks for the very graceful way in which she had launched the Dukat (applause).

Mr. Burkill then handed Mrs. Nilsen a handsome wrist watch and a pretty bouquet of flowers.

Mr. Sem, on behalf of the owners, handed Mrs. Nilsen a beautiful diamond pendant as a memento of the occasion.

Capt. Nilsen returned thanks on behalf of Mrs. Nilsen and said these souvenirs would always remind her of Shanghai.

THE S. S. DUKAT

The s.s. Dukat and her sister vessels are built to Det Norske Veritas highest requirements, the leading dimensions being as follows:—

The vessels are built with clear holds and the hatches are specially large for quick handling of cargo. The cargo handling arrangements consist of four tubular steel derricks to each of the two masts, three steam winches being fitted at the fore and after hatches and one mounted on the poop making seven winches in all.

SURRENDER OF INVADERS IS CANTON RUMOR

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Canton, Sept. 28.—Mu Yung-hsien has agreed to surrender to the Cantonese, but not to Chen Chiung-ming.

Negotiations are proceeding for the disposal of the Kwangsi-ites in Kwangtung, there being 8,000 Kwangsi-ites awaiting disbandment in Canton alone.

MA MAY BE ALIVE

General Ma Chi (who was reported to be dead) is said to be advising Mu Yung-hsien to hold out, while Wen Tsung-yao, the foreign consuls and others have suggested that General Mu Yung-hsien should retire. The British Consul-General is helping in the mediation which is now proceeding.

Some of the Kwangsi leaders declare that the Kwangsi forces have been victorious near Waichow, and that surrender is therefore unnecessary.

SEEK PEACE

The Provincial Assembly is asking Li Fook-lum, the Defense Commissioner, and Gen. Ngai Bong-ping, the Police Commissioner, temporarily to preserve peace in Canton, pending the outcome of the negotiations with Mu Yung-hsien. Gen Ngai Bong-ping and Admiral Tang Ting-kwang are named in connection with the Civil Governorship, and Yang Wing-tai is suggested for the Acting Military Governorship.

The Kuomintang members are, however, opposing Yang, who is expected to retire at the same time as Mu Yung-hsien.

and wheat, is to be furnished the farmers in return for a lien upon their next crop. Five hundred dollars additional has been contributed for this purpose from the relief fund raised at Peitaiho the past summer under the auspices of Mrs. Charles R. Crane, but these amounts merely touch the surface, as Mr. Cunningham reports that $60,000 for seed is needed in the Paotingfu district alone.

In order that the famine be not extended to a second crop, it is necessary that seed be supplied immediately to the farmers, enabling them to take advantage of the recent copious fall rains.

RELIEF MEETING

The American National Relief Committee will hold its first meeting tomorrow afternoon at four. The Shantung residents of Peking, including many wealthy merchants and officials, met this afternoon and organised a Shantung Residents of the Capital Relief Society. There is at present a tendency toward a multiplicity of relief organisations, working more or less independently. No impetus strong enough to bind them together has yet arisen, although it is felt that the need is as great as that which Hoover faced in Belgium.

President Hsu is supporting the policy of using the surplus salt revenue solely for development and constructive purposes, which would leave the foreign powers no excuse for withholding it. Objections are coming in from provinces which maintain that they must have shares of the surplus for their administrative expenses.

The President received Chen Yi, High Commissioner to Mongolia, in audience today, and discussed with him means for the pacification of the Mongolians. He ordered Chen to proceed with despatch to his post at Urga.

The latest plan for national reunification, determined upon at a conference between the President and Premier and in harmony with suggestions wired by Li Shun, is for Wang Nai-ping to mediate with the representatives of the disaffected factions in Tientsin, and the President to send separate wires to Sun Yat-sen, Tang Shao-yo, Tan Yen-kai and Chen Chiung-ming. Wang Nai-ping today went to Tientsin upon his mission.

TO CHECK EXPORTS

Peking, September 21.—In order to check the increased export of farm animals from China by way of Tsingtau, owing to the crop failure in the famine districts and the inability of Chinese peasants to feed their stock, the North China Relief Association has decided to establish horse and cattle refuges in various spots in the famine area which will preserve the animals for the farmers. Animals will be received and deposit given of six dollars for each. They will be fed free of charge until the next crop comes in when they will be returned to their original owners upon refund of the deposit.

The Ministry of Communications has decided to begin grading work immediately upon the Changchow-Shihchiachuan and the Weihsien and Yentai railroads using famine refuge labor.

PLIGHT OF REFUGEES

Lack of organisation in co-operation has resulted in the useless and inhuman shipping of feminine refugees back and forth across the country. Train loads of refugees carried free of charge by the Peking-Mukden line from the south to Fengtai becaught the Fengtai Station-master to ship them to Kalgan. The Kalgan Magistrate, fearing such a large influx of destitute persons would not allow the refugees to detrain at his city.

The railroad authorities then shipped them on to Fengcheng the next station where they received the similar treatment. Railroad officials had no recourse but to ship the unfortunates back to Fengtai where they are still living in the train, largely without food. Railroad authorities have appealed to the Ministry of the Interior to issue instructions to local magistrate not to hinder the detrainment of refugees whom the railways have carried free of charge.

Exchange Deals Lead To Failure Of Italy Plunger

very unsatisfactory impression upon the public. I think the banks concerned will understand that they must not continue in the practice."

BURRELL CAPITULATES

Governor Coolidge said he expected his warning would have an immediate effect. Later State Treasurer Burrell announced that he would sever all connection with the advertising business and give all his time to his duties as State Treasurer.

A Boston despatch said:

"One more arrest, the sixth thus far, was made today in the investigation of "frenzied finance" in this city. Officials at work on the case said that "at least one other important warrant" was out. The new prisoner was Henry T. H. Neilson of 261 Sidney Street, Cambridge.

"Neilson was said to be one of Ponzi's first agents. He was a meat cutter a few months ago and admitted he had but $50 when he went to work for the Italian. Recently, it is declared, he has bought an automobile, taken a Sammer home on the North Shore Irvine, and is credited with having piled up more than $10,000 during the past few weeks. His commissions on one day are said to have been $6,000.

"Admitting he had been "in hiding" for the last few days, Neilson surrendered. He faces a technical charge of larceny. His bail was set at $5,000.

"Among the Ponzi and Old Colony Foreign Exchange Company note holders who presented themselves at the Attorney General's office were two Italians from Passaic, N. J. They said they represented a group of Italians in that city and they brought Ponzi notes for $85,000, averaging several hundred dollars each. Ponzi, they said, had a thriving office in Passaic.

"William E. Hinston, a handwriting expert, today confirmed reports that Ponzi and Old Colony Company notes had been "raised" by some claimants. Mr. Hinston said the notes were easy to counterfeit. Ponzi's attorneys asserted the losses represented would amount to $100,000.

"Mrs. Ponzi visited her husband at the Last Cambridge jail again today. She said on leaving, "He is feeling fine."

"The foreign exchange expert of one of "Boston's leading banks today declared that, as a result of inquiry from many clients, Ponzi's alleged activities were investigated by them many weeks ago. It was confirmed, the expert said, that Ponzi actually operated in foreign exchange coupons to a certain extent.

"At one time he could get an international reply coupon in Italy for 30 centimes, the equivalent of one-third of a trifle more than 4 cents, and exchange it in Switzerland for a 25-centime stamp, about equal to a 5-cent stamp here," it was explained.

"These operations by Ponzi were not as extensive as reported, the bank expert said. He declared it was well known to international bankers that it was possible, by taking advantage of the differences of exchange in various countries, to realise a profit of about 400 percent."

(New York Times)

Boston, August 11.—"Society owes me a chance to redeem my past," declared Charles Ponzi, after his admission today that he had been sentenced to three years in prison for forgery at Montreal and, during 1911 and 1921, served two years at Atlanta, Ga., for violating the United States immigration laws.

The last offense was the bringing of five Italians into this country over the Canadian border. It was committed, Ponzi said, within ten days of his release from the Montreal prison, where he was freed after 20 months for good behavior.

Ponzi had been debonair and smiling throughout his recent difficulties, but he wept today as he made his confession. His greatest sorrow, he said, was in having his wife learn of his past record. He had never told her these things.

Ponzi at first denied the Montreal story. Then he admitted that he was the man. Within three minutes he withdrew his "confession" and made another complete denial. Soon afterward he made a clean breast of the Montreal and Atlanta episodes.

He appeared particularly incensed at the action of the Bank Commissioner in closing the Hanover Trust Company, through which he had done most of his business for the last two weeks, and in which he bought more than a quarter interest a number of weeks ago.

William S. McNary, Vice President of the trust company, said he was surprised at the action, and insisted the institution was entirely solvent. The statement of Bank Commissioner Allen explains his action as follows:

COMMISSIONER'S CHARGES

"I have had a corps of examiners at work on the books of the Hanover Trust Company since last Saturday. The reason for closing the bank was in a large part due to the condition of its loans. Not only did I find loans that were excessive and beyond the legal limit, but I found also many loans that are either bad or of every doubtful value.

"The trust company, acting contrary to law and against the direction of the Bank Commissioner, has given either Ponzi or one of his agents—almost $500,000 of the $1,500,000 certificate of deposit. I read to the officials recently the law covering this matter and ordered them not to pay out any part of the certificate of deposit."

Following the action of the Bank Commissioner, Ponzi announced his resignation from the directorate of the trust company. The closing of the bank created a small flurry.

Ponzi expressed great fear that he would be deported. Immigration Commissioner Skeffington says in this regard:

"If Ponzi committed a crime within five years of his entrance into the United States he would be liable to deportation. I understand he went to Canada immediately upon his arrival here, and therefore the five-year limit would be counted from the time he entered this country from Canada.

"If he has a criminal record in Canada, he probably came into this country without inspection; if he did that, he made false and untruthful statements and is here unlawfully."

At the end of the present investigation into Ponzi's affairs a report will be sought on his status as a possible undesirable alien, the Commissioner said.

Ponzi declared tonight that he feared the developments might arouse some people against him, and he is taking extraordinary measures to prevent any attack upon him or his household.

CARRIES AUTOMATIC PISTOL

His Lexington mansion is heavily guarded, and Ponzi himself is keeping a loaded automatic pistol with him at all times. Even before he was dressed this morning he had it in a pocket of his dressing gown as he met the reporters. He showed the weapon then and again later in the day. He made the comment that the defenders at his home had been told to "shoot prowlers first and investigate afterward."

Meantime the status of his postal exchange business remains a mystery. Contrary to report, the examination of the Federal auditor, Edwin L. Pride, is not complete, although it should be finished this week. It is feared that the total of the outstanding notes against Ponzi is considerable. Attorney General Allen has asked that all remaining note holders report to him at the State House, and scores of them have appeared there daily this week.

Ponzi reiterates that his assets are sufficient to meet all the notes out against him, with plenty to spare.

There was moderate excitement outside his School Street offices, now closed, during the day, but less than the police were prepared to cope with if it had been necessary. Ponzi has announced that his office will reopen Saturday.

A genuinely remarkable situation exists, despite the disclosures so detrimental to Ponzi. The number of persons whose confidence in him is unshaken is surprising. Everywhere one meets men and women who declare they are holding on to his notes and who assert with emphasis that regardless of his past record his postal coupon proposition is "on the level."

Ponzi is still bitter against the officials who, he insists, are inspired by the "bank ring." He claims that $275,000 has mysteriously disappeared from his credit at a Manchester, N. H., bank, and asserts it is another trick of the official investigators.

"Well, I don't need it now," he said, "it will have to be produced some time."

INSISTS ASSETS WITHHELD

Early this evening Ponzi issued this statement regarding the closing of the Hanover Trust Company:

"I feel that the action of the Commissioner is only a new attempt on on his part to prevent me from gaining possession of the $1,500,000 which I have in that institution, in the hope that I will not be able to meet my noteholders.

"I put my money into a State trust company, approved year after year by the Bank Commissioner examined, I understand, within three months, and received a certificate of deposit for $1,500,000 good anywhere in the hands of any individual, bank or trust company, but not good now that the Commissioner has taken charge and suspended payments of all the company's obligations. What merchant or banker could stand the strain of being compelled to meet obligations before they came due? How can I pay notes and at the same time be deprived of my liquid assets?

Ponzi told the detailed story of his violations of the law and prison sentences in Canada and the United States in a "formal" statement issued late today from the office of his attorney, Daniel V. McIsaac, former Assistant District Attorney. The confession in part follows:

SAYS HE WAS INNOCENT

"If several years ago I committed a sin—if I made a mistake and paid for it, I had every reason to believe that society owed me another chance.

"I am not the first one who committed a sin. I see others who were under such circumstances years ago now occupying prominent positions. I do not see why I should be made an exception to the general rule and become an object of persecution on the part of either the authorities, press or the public.

"Charles W. Morse, at one time a prominent banker was also convicted in the United States Court and sentenced to fifteen years at Atlanta, Ga. I know it because I was there with him.

"What is happening to me today happened then in Montreal, the only difference being that the object of persecution then was my employer. A man, apparently friendly to him, suggested he leave Canada, the object of the man being to appropriate during his absence all the assets left by the fugitive banker.

"I was present at the transaction when it developed later the man could not gain possession of the assets.

"Revenge or other motives prompted him to demand the return of my employer under extradition proceedings on a charge of forgery.

"I felt indignant, as any other man would feel under the circumstances, and I decided I would save my employer regardless of the cost or consequences. When he was brought to trial I exonerated him by assuming the blame. He was released, and to this day I do not know what has happened to him.

"As I said before, I sinned, and I paid for it and moreover, when the time came, I made a clean breast of it. Is this enough?

"I do not wish to give their names, but there are two men who now live in Boston who can substantiate my statement as to the sacrifice I made for Zarossi. If it becomes necessary I can furnish their names, but not for publicity."

DECLARE COMPANY SOLVENT

Boston, Aug. 11, (Associated Press).—William S. McNary Chairman of the Board of Directors and Treasurer of the Hanover Trust Company, explained today how Charles Ponzi became associated with that bank. He said:

"Ponzi was introduced at the bank last June by leading, reputable Italians of Boston and he opened a substantial account. Any bank in Boston or New York, for that matter, would have gladly accepted Ponzi's account. He has paid out $6,000,000 through the Hanover Trust Company.

Subsequently Mr. Ponzi acquired a few shares of stock of the bank and I believe now he has some 200 shares in his own name. I am also informed he has more than 1,500 shares, all told, which he controls in some manner, I do not know how.

"We looked him up and found nothing against him. He was a substantial depositor in our bank and in other banks, and he was highly recommended to us. He also had a good business, which we looked into.

NO DEBT TO BANK

"Mr. Ponzi does not owe the Hanover Trust Company a cent. You may rest assured of that, if of nothing else. Mr. Ponzi assigned $500,000 of the $1,500,000 held in certificate of deposit to the bank to secure it. We have that secure. The remaining million is liquid, so we can turn it over in five minutes.

"Another matter which has not been made clear is that we absolutely know where that certificate of deposit is, at this minute.

"Last Saturday Mr. Ponzi removed a large amount of perfectly good securities from the Hanover Trust Company. I will not say what they were or how much they amounted to. That is Mr. Ponzi's business. Neither do I know what Mr. Ponzi's liabilities are, but I will say his assets are very large, in my opinion."

The Executive Committee of the trust company issued the following statement:

"We do not care to comment upon the action of the Bank Commissioner except to say that we believe that we have a few poor loans on our books, that we have a larger percentage of liquid assets in proportion to our liabilities than any trust company in the State, that we have never failed as yet to meet any of our obligations and have no reason to believe that we would not continue to meet them in the future.

Total deposits in commercial department, $3,168,000 cash and liquid assets $1,854,000, of which $1,525,000 in cash.

"The law requires a 20 percent cash reserve, and we have three tires the amount that the law requires.

"We know that the investigation by the Bank Commissioner will fully substantiate our statements."

EDUCATE YOUNG IS MISSIONARIES' IDEAL PROGRAM

Prevention Rather Than Rescue Is Plan Advanced By Lecturer On Tour

(China Press Correspondence)

Nanchang, Sept. 25.—Miss Margaret Slattery, noted writer, lecturer and educationalist of Boston, Mass., has been visiting and lecturing in Nanchang for the past two weeks. She and Miss Wealthy Honsinger, formerly principal of the Nanchang Baldwin School for Girls, are making a tour of the world in the interest of missions and educational work.

They are leaving here tomorrow for Tokio where they will attend the Sunday School Convention in October.

From Tokio they will proceed to Singapore and from thence to India, Egypt, Palestine and later northward through Italy and Europe.

During her stay in the city Miss Slattery gave a number of delightful and exceedingly informative lectures in several of the mission and government schools. She was especially well received at the government Girl's Normal School.

"I am convinced that the only education worth while is the education of youth," she said in discussing the problem later. She pointed out very skillfully that character forming was the only worthwhile thing in education.

Last night she spoke before the Nanchang Discussion Club on "Prevention versus Rescue" and dwelling on a statement by Professor James that no man was capable of taking up a new idea after 40 years of age showed how reforms in every direction had to be undertaken by young men. She pointed out that promising and capable young Chinese should be given positions of responsibility and trust it a native leadership was ever to be developed in this country.

Food Sought For Victims Of Flood

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Paris, September 28.—M. Borrel, Under-Secretary of State and Director of the Hydraulic Power Services has arrived at Saint-Jean de Maurienne in the flood area in Savoie, accompanied by the Director of Highways and the Director of the P. L. M. railways.

He visited the factories, situated above the town, and afterwards went on foot to Modana to make an estimate on the spot of the damage, caused by the recent floods, and of the measures to be taken to supply the population with food.

London, Sept. 27.—A distressing picture of the devastation wrought by the floods that have followed upon violent rainstorms in France, Switzerland and northern Italy, is given in a message from Reuter's Paris correspondent, who states that the damage done is estimated at 50,000,000 francs.

On the upper Maurienne factories were badly damaged, and houses swept away by raging torrents, while there have been heavy losses in cattle.

There has been widespread devastation in Switzerland in the basin of the upper Rhine, while the Rhone valley above the Lake of Geneva has also been completely ravaged. The Simplon line has submerged in several places, and a number of bridges destroyed. All telephone and telegraphic communication is interrupted.

The floods in northern Italy have been of a catastrophic nature, especially in Friuli. Lakes Maggiore and Como have overflowed, and the town of Como is partly under water. Liguria also suffered severely, while a waterspout, accompanied by violent wind, destroyed huts at Carfagnana, where victims of the recent earthquake were taking shelter.

CHARGE SEMENOFF HAS BROKEN PACT

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Vladivostok, Sept. 28.—The Verdhne-Udinsk authorities have addressed a letter to the Japanese Staff, accusing Ataman Semenoff of violating the peace terms, inasmuch as his troops have crossed the neutral zone and attacked Verdhne-Udinsk detachments.

General Takayanagi has replied that according to information from the Japanese mission in the Zabaikai, the Verdhne-Udinsk troops have themselves been violating the peace entering the neutral territory and requisitioning foodstuffs Ataman Semenoff, he said, adhered to his attitude that he was not responsible for Baron Ungern's actions, having severed connections with him.

The General further added that, in case the Verdhne-Udinsk Government sincerely desired peace, it should discuss with Ataman Semenoff the question of clearing the country of Baron Ungern's and other Partisan bands. Japanese would not object to such a course.

AIRPLANE USED FOR LOCATING NEW R. R. ROUTE

Manila Company Saves Time And Money By Employing Aerial Method

Locating a railroad by airplane is the latest venture of the Third Aero Squadron, Camp Stotsenburg, Philippine Islands, and one long flight has enabled a railroad engineer to determine which one of three general routes will be utilized for the new road. The saving of many months and thousands of dollars has resulted. Instead of three parties of locating engineers being sent out to make the preliminary survey only one will now be necessary.

The Manila Railroad Company has planned the extension of its line from Cabanatuan through parts of the provinces of Nueva Ecija and Neuva Vidcaya to Bayombong. Parts of the two provinces are very thinly settled and no comprehensive maps or surveys were available.

The military authorities are vitally interested in the extension of the Manila Railroad Company line, and accordingly permission was obtained from the Commanding General, Philippine Department to use a government airplane on the preliminary reconnaissance trips.

The first trip was made by Mr. E. S. Von Piontkowski, Chief Engineer, in a D. H. 4 piloted by Lieut. W. C. Maxwell, 3rd Aero Squadron. Lieut. Maxwell, with the railroad official in the gunner's cockpit passed over Mt. Arayet and then followed the Pampanga River until he picked up the railroad line, at Capan. He followed the river from Cabanatuan on to Panabangan and over Mt. Pangloriahan, thence to Bayombong.

The railroad engineer on the return was enthusiastic over the trip, declaring that the single flight has saved him months of tedious work in running lines through difficult territory. Before his surveying party is sent he plans at least one additional reconnaissance trip.

KOHLEMAINER, DISTANCE MARVEL OF GENERATION; STORY OF GREAT VICTORY

Winner Of 1920 Marathon Is Inhabitant Of America But Ran For Finland—As Fresh At Finish, Apparently, As At Start—Grea t Enthusiasm

Hannes Kohlemainen, of Brooklyn, N. Y., the "Flying Finn" who won the Marathon at Antwerp, the premier event of the Olympiad, negotiated the 26 miles and 385 yards in 2 hours 32 minutes 35 seconds. Lossman, of Esthonia, was second, and Valerio, of Italy, was third.

Kohlemainen, apparently fresh enough to run the distance again, was more than 400 yards ahead of the field at the end. He continued around the big stadium track after crossing the finish line, while the assembled multitudes covered him with flowers and sent cheer after cheer echoing across the field.

Loseman took second place only after a struggle with Valerio, who threw several handsprings and cartwheels to show that he had not been fagged completely by the long grind. Loseman showed a great burst of speed at the finish.

Others, in order of finish, were Broos, fourth; Toomoskoki of Finland, fifth; Scfus, of Denmark, sixth; J. L. Organ, of Pittsburgh (the first American), sixth. The next American to finish was Carl Linder, of Quincy, Mass., who got eleventh place. C. L. Mellor, of Chicago, was twelfth.

Kolehmainen, who has lived many years in America, is a distance runner of international fame. He trained for the Olympics by winning the New York Athletic Club's trial marathon race.

Although he holds his first American citizenship papers, Kolehmainen was barred from representing the United States in the big international games because he competed for Finland in 1908. He holds world's records for the 3,000 meters and the 5,000 meters, which he won in 1912, when he also took first place in the 10,000 meter event.

CHEERED BY YANKEES

The Marathon winner also has a string of victories in American long-distance races to his credit. In a New York Marathon on November 1, 1913, he not only won but broke the record for seven, eight, nine and ten miles.

Members of the American team, who never had considered their chances for a win in the big event very encouraging, enthusiastically greeted the victory of the Finnish star as an American conquest, and heaped congratulations on the winner.

Until five miles from the finish the marathon was a two-man race between Kolehmainen and Gitsham, the South African star, who alternated with the winner in setting the pace. Gitsham, veteran at the event, and who ran second at Stockholm in 1912, looked good until he weakened after running shoulder to shoulder with Hannes for twenty miles. Then he fell back slowly and before long was outdistanced by several runners he had left behind at the start.

The American team did exceptionally well to have three men in the first twelve. All ran well and should be satisfied with their showing. Thus far none has showed any bad effects as a result of the gruelling grind.

WEATHER WAS IDEAL

During the first half of the race, Gitsham led the field. The Americans had been left far behind early in the running. At the ten kilometer mark, the first United States contender was holding seventh place with difficulty. Kolehmainen was even further back, but he was letting the others make the pace and when he went out to win his supremacy was easily apparent.

The weather was ideal for the running of the race. Although it had been cold and threatening earlier in the day, there remained just enough tang to the atmosphere to make it ideal when the starter's gun sent a field of sixty-four away from the mark. The track was fairly fast.

The Finns, from the opening day of the Olympiad, asserted their assurance of capturing the classic distance number. Their expectations were fulfilled. To England the result probably was most disappointing, since the British contingent had greatest confidence in A. R. Mills, the English cross-country champion.

MAY POSTPONE WORLD SERIES FOR FEW DAYS

(U. S. Naval Radio)

Chicago, Sept. 28.—The National Baseball Commission, having in charge the arrangements for the 1920 World's Series, today announced that, in the event of the Cleveland club winning the American League flag, the schedule for the series would be re-arranged in order to give the Cleveland management time to prepare the grounds for the accommodation of world-series crowds.

This re-arrangement is necessary in this special instance because the Cleveland club does not possess the spacious grounds and grandstands which feature the League's properties in other cities.

Should Cleveland win the pennant the first game of the world series will be played on the 8th of October, instead of the 5th, as previously announced. Otherwise, the original dates will be adhere to.

FEW ARE IMPLICATED

Chicago, Sept. 28.—Announcement was made today by the foreman of the Grand Jury which is investigating the charges of alleged collusion between professional baseball players and a clique of gamblers, to the effect that only a limited number of players, belonging to two clubs, are so far implicated, according to the evidence adduced so far by the inquisitorial body.

Mass. Riflemen Make Record Score

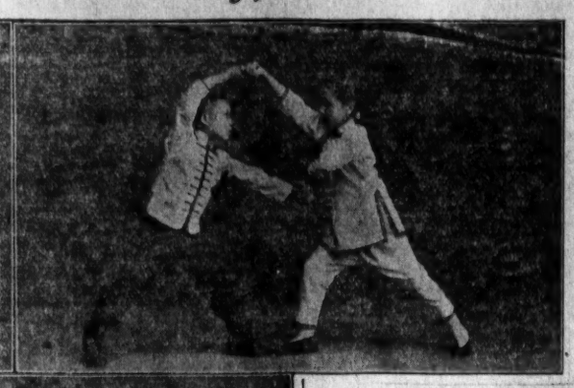
Camp Perry, Ohio, August 19.—The Massachusetts civilian team made good today in the finish of the Herrick Trophy match. They not only landed first place but broke a world's record, having piled up a total of 1,735 out of a possible 1,800 over the 800, 900 and 1,000 yard ranges.

The previous world's record was 1,732, established by the former Massachusetts team in 1914 at Sea Girt, N. J.

Cleveland Prepares For World Series

Cleveland, Ohio, August 7.—As the pennant race is by no means decided, the management of the Cleveland Club, in anticipation of the Indians winning the flag, has awarded a contract and secured a permit to construct a press box to seat 500 newspaper correspondents and telegraph operators at the world's series.

Chin Woo Athletic Association Plans Two-Day Fete In Celebration Of Tenth Anniversary, October 16-17



Here are examples of athletic developments under the Chin Woo system. On the upper left is an individual fencing exercise, with two lady participants. On the upper right is demonstrated how the Chin Woo system of boxing may be employed by children as gymnastic exercises. Below is a perfect sample of an interlock in a Chin Woo wrestling match.

Of special interest is the bottom picture which shows, in front, Mr. Chen Kungche, who is now touring the Dutch Indies and other places, and who has just cabled the donation of his four-storied residence on Baikal Road to the association.

The other wrestler is Mr. Loo Wei-cheng, one of the founders of the association and a leader in the movement for the calling of a national citizens' convention to discuss athletics.

PITCHER MAYS, BACK ON MOUND, GETS OVATION

Twirler Whose Ball Killed Chapman Exonerated By Ball Fans

New York, Sept. 10.—Pitcher Carl Mays, who threw the ball which recently killed Ray Chapman, Cleveland's star shortstop, has been vociferously exonerated of blame by fans and players alike.

Mays was given an ovation, when he appeared on the field at the Polo Grounds for the first time since the regrettable accident, that clearly established his standing with local fans.

When Mays first appeared on the field to warm up for the game he was cheered. The applause was continued for fully five minutes, and every time Mays appeared at bat or was at all prominent he received applause. Without doubt Carl Mays had the sympathy of every patron.

Carl was in a very peculiar position. He hardly knew where he stood for a time; but yesterday he fully appreciated that the home people were with him.

When he took his place in the box the ovation he received must have warmed the cockles of his heart. Several of the Detroit players against whom the Yankees were playing, clapped their hands. They knew that Carl had been used unjustly and unfairly.

Mays looked as if he fully appreciated the position he was in. But he did not weaken. He was, no doubt, over-anxious and careful, but he came through the terrible ordeal like the man he is.

There was only one time that he possibly failed to show real grit. He pitched an in-ball to one batter and shouted "look out." We all could imagine his feelings.

The best evidence that Mays held his nerve under the trying conditions that he was obliged to face, was that he shut out the Tigers 10 to 0.

$150,000 Colt May Never Race Again

Inchcape Wrenches Fetlock In Gallop At Saratoga

Saratoga, New York, Aug. 23.—Inchcape, the juvenile speed marvel which S. C. Hildreth bought from J. H. Rosseter during the Aqueduct meeting for $150,000, will not don a saddle this year and may never be able to go to the races again. In a trial here recently he wrenched a fetlock and pulled up exceedingly lame. A minute examination disclosed the fact that the wrench was severe and that it would be necessary to throw him out of training for the remainder of the year and probably forever.

It was Inchcape's first fast trial since he entered the Hildreth barn. Immediately after he was bought by Mr. Hildreth the colt developed skin disease. It spread rapidly and covered his body with blemishes. As a result the only exercise he received was to gallop riderless alongside of his pony. Hildreth nursed him along carefully and got him well cured of the disease, and this morning decided to give him a stiff breeze. He sent him a half mile in 47 1-5, and during it Inchcape slipped and injured himself.

The colt was entered in the Hopeful and the Futurity, and before he became ill was expected to win both. While belonging to Mr. Rosseter he galloped off with the Tremont at Aqueduct and made a dozen of the best juveniles in training look cheap. Because of this great race he was called another Man o'War. Hildreth went in quest of him, and after a lot of dickering obtained him for the record sum of $150,000. He is by Friar Rock out of Rose of Gold, and was bred by John E. Madden at Hamburg Place, Ky.

RECREATION PARK TO BE OFFICIALLY OPENED; NEW NATIONAL HOME SECURED

The Chin Woo Athletic Association, on Baikal Road, is planning a two-days' celebration in honor of its tenth anniversary. October 16 and 17 have been selected and a committee of ten, headed by Mr. S. S. Chow, is busily at work arranging the program.

The official opening of the Chin Woo Recreation Park will take place on the occasion. This park, being an annex to the association and donated by an annonymous person, will, from that date, be open to all classes of Chinese who observe the by-laws.

Mr. Kung-che Chen, one of the founders of the Association, who is at present touring the Federated Malay States at the invitation of the leading Chinese there, to assist organising branch associations, has cabled offering his four-story residence to be used as national headquarters of the Chin Woo Association.

During the past three years the association has established branches in Canton, Hongkong and Hankow. Delegates from these branches are in Shanghai deliberating on the organisation of a national association. Mr. Chen's generous offer will certainly help to dispose of one of the difficulties that confront the delegates.

The national association will be conducted by a paid staff whose work will be to compile textbooks of gymnastics along the "Chin Woo" system, and to train physical directors.

At present there is a great shortage of the latter, due to rapid increase in adoption of the system by schools. The Kwangtung educational authorities have made it a compulsory course for schools.

Success of the Association has been due in great measure to the spirit of sacrifice on the part of its leading members. Besides putting in their money to maintain and extend it, many of them have volunteered themselves to provide certain schools with free gym classes.

While the association's membership consists of mainly business men it takes interest in the schools and workmen as well. Its effort to provide men, both young and middle-aged, and of all walks of life, with physical exercises and other healthy time-killing sports and hobbies, explains its popularity and the high esteem of society.

The events during the coming celebration will demonstrate the association's motto: "True Sacrifice."

Following will be some of the items:

Reviewing the association's corps by Mr. Yuan Hung-kee formerly of the International Banking Corporation.

Gymnastic drill on the "Chin Woo" system by 20 schools.

Class and individual exercises by members.

Music by the association's string and brass bands.

Side shows.

Addresses and greetings.

Exhibition of literary work by members.

Dramatic plays by members.

Portuguese Club Will Celebrate Tennis Triumphs

In celebration of the tenth anniversary of the founding of the Portuguese Republic, and of its victory in the Shanghai Tennis League finals, the Portuguese Sporting Association will give a "championship" dinner at the Lusitano Club next Tuesday evening, during the progress of which the tennis prizes for the year will be distributed to the various winners.

Unofficially, the affair will also be in honor of Messrs. H. Toussaint and R. Carnavarro, winners of the Shanghai Lawn Tennis Association doubles championship for 1920, Mr. Carnavarro being a member of the organisation.

Mr. Toussaint and many other guests have signified their intention of accepting the hospitality of the P.S.A. on the evening in question and a merry time is anticipated.

CARPENTIER MAY DODGE LEVINSKY TO MEET CHAMP

Frenchman Due To Fight Dempsey In November, Says Report

Late advices from America indicate that Georges Carpentier and Jack Dempsey will clash in a 15-round bout at Madison Square Garden sometime during the month of November—always providing that the French champion emerges a victor over Battling Levinsky, whom he is scheduled to meet at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn on the night of October 12 (Columbus Day).

It is understood that "Tex" Rickard, lessee of the Garden, has secured the signatures of both Dempsey and Carpentier to articles calling for such a bout, and has arranged the matter with C. B. Cochran, the British promoter, who holds a contract with Carpentier which does not expire until January of next year.

HERE'S THE RUMOR

It may even be, our informant says, that Carpentier will cance the Levinsky bout in order to properly prepare for Dempsey.

Following the Carpentier match says Jack Kearns the champion's manager, Dempsey will meet Jess Willard in a return match. After that, Kearns says, Jack will be ready to take on all-comers, including Harry Wills, the formidable negro, who is clamoring for a match.

Shanghai Cricketers Arrive In Hankow

(China Press Correspondence)

Hankow, Sept. 29.—The s.s. Tuckwo, arriving here yesterday afternoon, had on board the cricket team which is to represent Shanghai in a two-innings interport match on Friday and Saturday next. The Shanghai men all looked fit and ready for a stiff argument with the local eleven.

For this afternoon, in the nature of a "warm-up" for the interport match, a game has been arranged between the Shanghai players and a team from H. M. S. Hawkins, flagship of Vice Admiral Alexander Duff, commander-in-chief of the China Squadron.

TENNIS SINGLES MATCHES ADVANCE TOWARD FINALS; ONLY EIGHT PLAYERS LEFT

Sheldon, George, Dr. O'Hara And Elmore Among Those Eliminated—Third Round Tomorrow—Pott Meets Wade; Roberts Meets Kilmanek—Hard Contests expected

By Dudley Burrows

Late Report—It was semi-officially reported late last night that Mr. T. Tanaka had defeated Mr. R. B. Nichols in their singles match yesterday afternoon.

With two matches yet to be heard from, and one other in doubt (due to unauthenticated returns), the Shanghai Lawn Tennis Association singles championship for 1920 yesterday went into the third round of play, with only eight survivors out of the original 24 who entered the tournament.

Of the two matches which have not yet been reported one involves the Japanese court-star, Mr. J. Tanaka, winner of the singles championships in 1918 and 1919, who was scheduled to try conclusions with Mr. R. B. Nichols.

On the upper bracket Mr. W. S. A. Pott vanquished a brilliant (though erratic) racket-wielder in the person of Mr. V. A. Sheldon, who went down in straight sets (6-4, 6-3) before the steady play of the winner.

Mr. Pott, it will be remembered, won the Hong doubles this year in company with Mr. W. P. Roberts. Mr. Roberts, by the way, scored a quick victory over Dr. O'Hara on Tuesday, playing the overworked medico off his feet in a whirl-wind match and winning 6-1, 6-1.

WADE DEFEATS GEORGE

John Wade, runner-up with Mr. Tanaka in the doubles championship last week, defeated Mr. A. H. George, the indefatigable Secretary of the Tennis Association, in straight sets, 6-1, 10-8.

Owing to his multitudinous duties, both in the world of business and the world of sport, Mr. George has been unable to give sufficient time to his own tennis. At that, he gave Mr. Wade quite an argument before yielding the second set, which was filled with a splendid brand of play.

P. H. Kilmanek, after winning a deuce set from and losing a similar controversy to Mr. J. Elmore (7-5, 5-7) managed to pull the match out of the fire rather easily in the end, the score of the deciding set being 6-3. Kilmanek.

TANAKA SCORE MISSING

Mr. H. H. Knowles won from Mr. A. O. M. Forrest (unauthenticated), while Mr. M. B. Brown defeated Mr. A. E. Seddon in hollow fashion, 6-0, 6-2, the scores of the matches between Messrs. John A. Ely and V. Elliott and between Messrs. R. B. Nichols and J. Tanaka were unobtainable up to a late hour last evening.

As the draw stands today, the following pairs will meet in the third round of the tournament to be played on courts selected by them, on Saturday afternoon:

Mr. Pott, vs. Mr. Wade; Mr. Roberts vs Mr. Kilmanek; Mr. Knowles vs. Mr. Brown; and the winner of the Ely-Elliott match versus the winner of the Nichols-Tanaka encounter.

On Sunday next it is expected that Secretary George will announce the dates and location of the semi-final and championship rounds of the tournament, the winner and runner-up of which will probably be chosen in company with Messrs. R. Toussaint and R. Carnavarro, winners of the 1920 doubles title—to represent Shanghai in the interport match against Hongkong, to be played in the Crown Colony the second week in November or thereabouts.

French "Bird" Wins Gordon-Bennett Cup

(U. S. Naval Radio)

Paris, September 28.—M. Sadi Leconte was tonight declared to be the winner of the Gordon-Bennett cup race.

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, September 28.—The only pilot to complete the course for the Gordon-Bennett Cup for International Aviation, says the Temps, was M. Sadi Lecointe (France) piloting a Nieuport aeroplane. He finished in 1 hour 9 minutes 2 seconds and will be the winner of the Cup unless the British airman Mr. Raynham, who has until 6 this evening to try his chance, completes the course in shorter time.

London Through Chinese Eyes

London Through Chinese Eyes, Or, My Seven And A Half Years In London. By M. T. Tyau, LL.D (Lond.). The Caxton Press, Ld., London. Commercial Press, Shanghai. Mex. $6.00 net.

"To see ourselves as others see us" is always an interesting experience. The many Londoners, therefore, in Shanghai and those who are scattered throughout China will find "London Through Chinese Eyes" both instructive and amusing.

Dr. Tyau is known to many foreigners in China as the able editor of the Peking Leader, and author of various works on China and its jurisprudence. Thus, they will not be surprised to find a careful and eminently fair analysis and comparison in his book dealing with the metropolis of the British Empire, its citizens, and their manners and customs.

The author, who spent seven and a half years in London (March, 1909 to August, 1916), proves himself to be a keen observer of men and things. Though we may not quite agree with all his deductions, and though after reading the book, we may still be convinced of the superiority of Western civilisation, notwithstanding his clever arguments in favour of many Eastern institutions, we cannot but admire his clear-sightedness, and his desire to record his impressions in as unbiased a manner as possible.

Dr. Tyau undoubtedly possesses a sense of humor, and though the expression of some of it is unconscious, it is none the less delightful. In his chapter on street names, and referring to the fact that London has a Milk Street, the author considers that as an Englishman cannot get along without his afternoon tea certain streets should be re-named Bread Street, Butter Street, Scone Street, Marmalade Street, Honey Street, etc.

Dealing with English cooking and restaurants, Dr. Tyau—who in this case shows a bias towards the succulent dishes of his native land—thinks that a Chinese cook knows by experience the exact degree of seasoning acceptable to the majority of his patrons, so that they rarely need extra sauce or pepper, whereas in the West the meat that comes on the table is tasteless. He is obviously fond of British sweets, though!

The author's opinions regarding the "Eternal Feminine," though instructive, are such as will hardly meet with the approval of his fair readers. Their styles of dress come in for severe strictures. For instance, "The dress cut low at the neck as well as at the back seems rather indecorous from an Easterner's point of view. At times the threadlike supports suspended over the shoulders look dangerously unreliable, and we often dreaded to see them snap or slip off at any minute." Many of the doctor's Western readers will be inclined to agree with him.

There are thirty chapters in this eminently readable book which is cleverly illustrated by Miss Kong Sing. There is also a preface by Sir John Newell Jordan, H. B. M.'s Minister to China.

UNSEEN HANDS

Unseen Hands. By Robert Orr Chipperfield. New York: Robert M. McBride and Co. $1.90.

Readers of detective tales will find this book of absorbing interest—the plot is well developed and the denouement startling. It deals with two mysterious deaths and two attempts to commit murder, each following the other in rapid succession; it all happened in the venerable family mansion of Richard Lorn on Madison avenue, New York. Mrs. Lorn died from blood poisoning—the result of a slight needle prick—despite the efforts of four experts to save her life; in less than a month Julian, the eldest son, was found dead in the bathroom. "Some one had taken his razor from him, cut his throat with it, and then slipped it back into his hand as he lay dead." These tragedies were soon followed by attempts on the lives of another son and of Lorn himself. Manifestly, some one was bent on exterminating the entire family. The authorities were notified and a clever young detective—Sergeant Henry Odell—was assigned to the job; he summed up the result of his preliminary investigation to his chief.

The thing that gets me is that the guilty person is there beneath that roof, talked with me today, was within the reach of my hand; and yet I was helpless to accuse. It is maddening! . . . I'm up against a stone wall. No motive, no slightest inkling as to the identity of the murder, and yet among the ten people who make up that household the solution lies.

In the end the mystery is solved; but not until we are conducted through an ingeniously constructed maze in which insanity, mania, hatred, jealousy, money lust, forgery, blackmail, poison, pathogenic bacteria, cocci and cultures are freely employed. As for the personages in the story, the reader will be interested in Farley Drew, the blackmailer; Girder, the superior servant; Randall, the hunchback; Peters, the butler; Titheredge; the family lawyer; Effie Wead, the spinster aunt, and last, but not least, Socrates, the parrot.

Decidedly, Mr. Chipperfield knows how to write a detective story. "Unseen Hands" is one of the best of its kind.

A SUBSTITUTE HUSBAND

Mollie's Substitute Husband. By Max McConn. Frontispiece by Edward C. Caswell. New York: Dodd, Mead and Co.

At an off hand estimate it seems likely that there is more plot to the page in the 370 pages of "Mollie's Substitute Husband" than is to be found in most novels, even in those that do not pretend to be anything but plot. There is so much complicated, criss-cross weaving in it that the reader needs to provide himself with a lifeline in order to keep his bearings and to remember who is who, and why—especially why. For the who and the why of some of the leading characters really make the chief part of the plot's pattern. It begins with an impersonation of one man by another, but it is not fair to the author or the reader to tell how long that impersonation lasts or what consequences it brings in its train, or how it finally ends. But it doesn't end when the man who undertakes it thinks it will, within half an hour, but, like that "tangled web we weave when first we practice to deceive," it spreads out before him until it becomes a life adventure.

The story opens in the cabaret of a luxurious hotel in Chicago and discloses at once a young man in his latter twenties, principal of the high school in a down-state town, who is having an innocently happy time in the colorful joyous surroundings during the few hours before he must leave for the scene of his daily life and duties. Then fate and adventure begin to open doors about him. First he sees a young woman with whom he had been deeply but hopelessly in love before her marriage to one of the United States Senators of the State. Then some people near him begin to take an excessive interest in him and presently invite him to join them in a private room. One of them wears a priestly habit, another is the head of the Reform League, and the third is the daughter of a very wealthy man. They want the Mayor to sign a certain traffic ordinance and know that he will not do so unless ordered by the United States Senator who is the husband of the young man's lost love. And they know the Senator will not give the order because he is in league with the evil forces that desire the defeat of the ordinance. So they seize upon the young high school principal's remarkable physical resemblance to the "Boy Senator" as a possible means of winning success and persuade him to impersonate the Senatorial boss long enough to impose upon the Mayor and give the order they covet. So much the reader learns within the first few pages, and then things begin to happen with bewildering speed and violence and complexity. The sheer improbability of the whole sequence of events makes it impossible for the reader to take the story seriously, and the author has done well not to take it too seriously himself. A certain levity of style with which he writes disarms criticism and adds to the entertainment he has provided. One imagines him dashing off his highly colored pages with his face wreathed in a grin, and one smiles one's way through them in sympathy with his enjoyment, and also in enjoyment of the fairy-story sort of tale he offers.

THE IVORY DISC

The Ivory Disc. By Percy Brebner. New York: Duffield and Co.

Mr. Brebner's story is a strange synthesis of advanced surgery and ancient occultism—a tale of conflict between the scientific knowledge of the West and the esoteric wisdom of the East. It is the world-old story of two men and one woman, the variations of which are apparently infinite. Fashionably enough, the villain is an Oriental. There was a time when a certain class of our novelists drew their villains almost exclusively from the ranks of the English aristocracy, but that day has passed. Now we encounter impassive Chinese with rapier-like finger nails, impenetrable Hindoos swatcher in darkest mystery, and suave Egyptians, masters of intrigue. One would almost welcome, by way of contrast, a novel in which an upright Chinese gentleman successfully defeated the machinations of a crafty American scoundrel, but it would be a brave author indeed who would hazard so radical a departure. The villain from the Orient will doubtless flourish for some time to come. The East is proverbially a land of mystery, and, in the minds of many fiction readers, mystery and villainy are nearly, if not quite, synonymous.

Mr. Brebner's heroine, despite her amazing unreality, is rather an engaging person. Like the tale of which she forms the central figure she is formed of contrasting characteristics. She proves quite as much of an enigma to the reader as she did to the hard-headed London surgeon who worshipped at her shrine, but man is strangely attracted by riddles and this may be the chief secret of her charm. The wily Professor Bocara is a sufficiently fantastic figure to satisfy even the most advanced and ardent movie fan, and his plots are stained with the deepest treachery. The action of the story drags in spots, but on the whole it runs evenly enough and is generously sprinkled with thrills. "The Ivory Disc" will furnish the reader with a harmless kind of diversion and will make no extortionate demands either upon his attention or upon his intellect.

LEERIE

Leerie. By Ruth Sawyer. Illustrated by Clinton Balmer. New York: Harper and Brothers.

A vivacious story, with plenty of sentimental appeal and written with a good deal of cleverness the conventional lines of fiction and ingenuity, Ruth Sawyer's new novel springs lightly out of and goes its own gait, paying tribute to the ordinary fictional structure only in the fact that a tale of love, happy and successful and moving on a fairly smooth course, is bound up in its scheme. But, after all, Sheila O'Leary, otherwise "Leerie," is the story, and the love tale is just a fortuitous circumstance. The inspiration for the story, and apparently the suggestion for the chief character also, comes from Stevenson's poem, "The Lamplighter," a verse from which offers an indicative note on the title page.

Leerie is a very vital, radiant, self-forgetting nurse in a sanitarium who is gifted with insight and tact and a way of getting what she wants. When it seems to her that something out of the usual is needed by a patient she casts aside rules and conventional behavior and anything else that is in the way and moves heaven and earth to get what she believes will help. Consequently gossip wags its tongue and scandal besmirches her reputation. The author devises some dramatic but plausible developments in the clearing up of matters. Then Leerie decides to postpone her wedding and go to France as a nurse, and in the last chapters, which carry her across the ocean and through some soul-searching experiences, the author proves her ability to write with simplicity and sincerity of the things that deeply move the human heart. Miss Sawyer makes her own confession of literary faith and her apology for what to some readers would be the over-sentimentalisation of her chief character and her story in a foreword, in which she says: "Best of all I like to write stories about people who help the world to go round with a little more cheer and good will than is usual. . . . I like to make it my business to find as many as I can; and when I am lucky enough to find one I pop him—or her—into a book, to have and to hold always as long as books last and memory keeps green." And Leerie, she says, she found, and also the makings of her story, in a place which the purse made bright for everybody.

A PRESENT FROM NATURE

Moreover, what is Nature? It is that from which all creation springs. When things lose this Principle they die: when they receive it they are born. If men, in acting, run counter to it, they fail, if they comply with it, they succeed. Wherefore drop your silly prejudices and turn to Nature. From among its lofty mountains, covered with eternal snow, it offers you its product:—A TIBETAN FOX SKIN. Send $25.—(Chinese Post Office Money Order) to MR. ELLY WIDLER, TATSIENLU, SZECHWAN PROVINCE, and by return mail he will forward one of these specially selected TIBETAN FOX SKINS.

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

Don't Poison Baby.

FORTY YEARS AGO almost every mother thought her child must have paregoric or laudanum to make it sleep. These drugs will produce sleep, and a few drops too many will produce the sleep from which there is no waking. Many are the children who have been killed or whose health has been ruined for life by paregoric, laudanum and morphine, each of which is a narcotic product of opium. Druggists are prohibited from selling either of the narcotics named to children at all, or to anybody without labeling them "poison." The definition of "narcotic" is: "A medicine which relieves pain and produces sleep, but which in poisonous doses produces stupor, coma, convulsions and death." The taste and smell of medicines containing opium are disguised, and sold under the names of "Drops," "Cordials," "Soothing Syrups," etc. You should not permit any medicine to be given your physician know of whatto your children unless you or it is composed. Castoria does not contain narcotics.

The signature of Chas. H. Fletcher guarantees genuine Castoria

Physicians Recommend Castoria.

"I have frequently prescribed Castoria for common ailments of children with good results."
W. A. CRANDALL, M. D., Buffalo, N. Y.

"I find your Castoria is very beneficial in the treatment of children's ailments."
F. DAVIS, M. D., Chicago, Ill.

"As the father of thirteen children I certainly know something about your great medicine and, aside from my own family experience, I have, in my years of practice found Castoria a popular and efficient remedy in almost every home."
WM. J. MCCRANN, M. D., Omaha, Neb.

"I object to what are called patent medicines, where the maker alone knows what stuff is put in them, but I know the formula of your Castoria and advise its use in proper cases. I judge it to be a very useful, as well as harmless family medicine."
N. B. SIZER, M. D., Brooklyn, N. Y.

In The U.S. Court For China

L. Van Der Biegen,
Plaintiff,
v.
Neuss, Hesslein & Company Inc.,
Defendant.
Cause No. 1032.
ORDER.
Filed September 29, 1920.
GEO. J. JESSUP,
Deputy Clerk.

SYLLABUS
(By the Court).

1. Process: Service. Delivery of a copy of the summons to the "branch manager" is a sufficient service upon a corporate defendant, especially where it has no other representative in the jurisdiction.

2. Id. Appearance. A prayer for dismissal in a plea to jurisdiction is held to constitute a general appearance, notwithstanding a recital that defendant is "appearing specially."

Messrs. Fleming, Davies and Bryan, by Mr. Davies for the plea. Messrs. Jernigan, Fessenden and Rose, by Mr. Fessenden, contra.

LOBINGIER, J.:

A summons in this cause was issued on June 22, and returned by the Deputy Marshal six days later, with a recital of personal service,

"upon W. P. Hough, local manager of the defendant Company, by showing him the orfginal and handing to him copies of both the writ and the petition."

On July 12, defendant filed plea to jurisdiction, alleging that it was a New York corporation and that it "has not now nor did it have at any time mentioned in the plaintiff's petition herein, within the jurisdiction of this court, an agent or attorney authorised to accept service of process; . . .

"Wherefore the said defendant prays that the summons herein may be quashed and that said petition may be dismissed."

The practice in this jurisdiction requires the service of a summons in such a case by delivering a copy

"to the president, or other chief officer, of a corporate defendant, or to its managing agent, secretary or cashier, or, in case none of such officers are found within the jurisdiction, then to a clerk or agent of said corporation."

If, then, the party to whom the summons was delivered was, as recited in the Marshal's return, defendant's "local manager," the service was properly effected and the Court's jurisdiction over defendant's person thereby attached. The return may be contradicted, but

"it requires the clearest and most satisfactory evidence to overcome the statements thus made under the sanction of official oath and responsibility."

In this case the evidence discloses that printed matter sent out by defendant advertises a "Shanghai branch" with the party (Hough) upon whom service was made as "branch manager."

It further appears that defendant has maintained an office in Shanghai since February, 1919, with a sign and telephone, and that it advertises in the hong book. Both Hough and his successor are described as "representing" defendant and have made it a practice to solicit orders in its behalf. Neither, it is declared, has a power of attorney nor authority to engage or discharge employes, nor to open credits or bank accounts. But none of these prerogatives would be necessary in order to constitute the representative a proper recipient of the summons within the rule above quoted. As "branch manager," Hough would seem to fit the description of "managing agent." But if not, since he was defendant's only representative in China, he was at least a "clerk or agent," upon whom in such case the service was proper.

But jurisdiction of the person may be acquired in other ways than by service of process, and one of them is a general appearance on the part of the defendant. In this case the plea recites that the defendant is "appearing specially;" but the character of the appearance, whether general or special, is to be determined not by defendant's designation but by the nature of the relief which he seeks.

"Whether an appearance is general or special does not depend upon the form of the pleading filed, but on its substance. If a defendant invoke the judgment of the court in any manner, upon any question except that of the power of the court to hear and decide the controversy, his appearance is general."

We have seen that "defendant prays that . . . said petition may be dismissed." Of a similar prayer it has been said

"the motion is too broad. It is to dismiss the action. The most that could be done in any case where the only objection is that service is defective is to quash the summons. In such case the appearance must be limited to that purpose, otherwise it is general."

In either view of the case, therefore, defendant is in court and its plea to the jurisdiction must accordingly be overruled.

By The Court.

News Notes From Peking

(China Press Correspondence)

Peking, September 22.—The American Minister, Mr. Charles R. Crane, Counsellor Dr. C. D. Tenney, and Chinese Secretary Mr. Willys R. Peck, together with several prominent Chinese citizens including Mr. Liang Shih-yi, were the guests of President Hsu Shih-chang at tiffin in the presidential palace today. In all, fourteen people sat down to table.

Forty-three gentry of the capital met in the Peking Educational Association's headquarters yesterday afternoon, and under the chairmanship of Pao Yung drew up a petition to the Ministry of Interior, the Police Superintendent and the President insisting upon the restoration of local self-government to the city of Peking which was taken away by Yuan Shih-k'ai. The petition sets forth the argument that since a people's administration would be closer to the public than the national authorities, it would be more effective in handling local situations such as famine conditions, brigandage, etc.

A delegate from the popular organisations of Hupeh named Han Yung-kwan has arrived in Peking to agitate for the establishment of local self-government in that province.

Mr. Liang Chi-chiao has arranged an exhibition of late foreign books to be held in the Western Return Student's Association Building on Nan Wan Tze beginning September 26. Mr. Liang's collection has been gathered at considerable expense from various countries of Europe and from America. The public is invited to the exhibition.

The Peking Food Relief Society today received a large shipment of millet and wheat flour from Manchuria. These supplies will be sold to the destitute from the headquarters of the Society in the West city at five coppers per catty for the millet and ten for flour.

Mr. Nathaniel Peffer, who is on a tour of investigation of the famine district of Southern Chihli on behalf of the Peking press and the American Red Cross, writes that he has arrived in the affected area and is collecting data for a report. He states that the prospects for next year have been changed entirely by the abundant rains which have fallen within the past few days, and which make possible a fine crop of winter wheat in the spring if the seed is planted soon. In view of this situation, he emphasises the necessity of getting seed to the farmers immediately.

The government has received information that Chen Shu-fan, the Anfu Tuchun of Shensi, is levying heavy land taxes in his province for the purpose of military expense. It is believed here that he is preparing to assist Tang Chi-yao of Yunnan in his threatened invasion of Hupeh. The Government finds itself powerless to dismiss Chen because of the fear that he will openly join hands with the south-eastern independents. Upon request of Tang Chi-yao, according to information received by the administration here, Sun Yat-sen is assisting the Anfu M.P.'s who have fled to Shanghai to proceed to Yunnan.

The Government has sent delegates to the provinces to investigate military conditions. They are to find out the number of local and outside-province men under arms in each province, whether a friendly or hostile feeling exists between the two classes of men, what is the attitude of the populace toward the military in each individual province, and what is the total amount of arrears in pay of the soldiers.

Chen Chiung-ming announces to the Central Government that he has restored peace and order in the vicinity of Hweichow, but that the city itself is still in the hands of the Kwangsi general, Sun Hung-ying.

The headquarters of the Peking-Hankow Railway here announce that the railway administration is arranging to run a weekly Special Express train which will cover the distance between Peking and Hankow in twenty-eight hours. The train will be for first and second class passengers only, and an extra Express ticket will be required. It will be run in the same manner as the Tientsin-Pukow Express.

General Tsao Kun is laying plans for turning the post of Inspector-General of several provinces into a real job. He has devised an administrative organisation which is to work under the Inspector-General, and which is to be divided into two departments, Diplomatic and General. He desires Peking to approve of his plans, and recommends a similar organisation to the Inspectors-General of the Three Manchurian Provinces and of the Yangtsze Valley.

The estates of Chang Shu-yuan, ex-Tuchun of Shantung, who is now in hiding because of his Anfu brand, have been confiscated by Tien Chung-yu, present Military Governor of Shantung. There is still much agitation among the people and Assemblymen of Shantung province to oust Tien in favor of Wu Pei-fu, although the latter has made clear that he does not want the post.

Peking students have organised for famine relief. Representatives of the various schools met in the Y.M.C.A. yesterday and decided upon plans for collecting subscriptions for relief funds.

Following urgent requests from the popular organisations of his native province, Hupeh, Shia Shou-kan has withdrawn his resignation as Civil Governor of that province. He yesterday consulted with Premier Chin regarding the separation of the duties of the civil and military governors. The Premier pledged support to Shia's policy.

RED-BLOODED MEN ARE NEEDED TO-DAY

The great crises in history have been dominated by red-blooded, virile men and women. The weak and thin-blooded lack the strength, vitality or force to meet the situation.

Thin blood is a serious handicap but one which may be overcome. Once the blood becomes rich and plentiful all the attending symptoms, such as headache, indigestion, dizzy spells, palpitation of the heart, sleeplessness, chills and nervousness, will disappear. The way one man overcame anæmia is best explained in his own words.

"In 1917 when so many men were called upon to do double work because the younger men had been called across the sea to the Great War I found myself so overworked that in a few months I broke down completely," says Mr. John A. Gordon, No. 651 East Sixth street, Parkersburg, U. S. A.

"I was almost as pale as a ghost and my nerves were in a terrible condition. I became excited easily and would twist and turn all night long. When I did get to sleep I would awaken suddenly from bad dreams. My appetite was poor and I suffered keenly from indigestion. So badly did I feel that I thought I would never get well again.

"I had always heard a great deal about Dr. Williams' pink pills and finally decided to try them. The first bottle of pills helped me and with this encouragement I continued the treatment. Gradually I gained control of my nerves and now I am all right. I sleep well at night and feel refreshed. My colour is good and my strength has returned and I can do my work without any extraordinary effort. I strongly recommend Dr. Williams' pink pills to all who need a tonic."

Dr. Williams' pink pills are a specific for building up thin blood, making it rich and red. Red blood gives strength and vitality it enables the body to resist disease and expels harmful germs that have obtained entrance to the system. It is of the utmost importance in time of epidemics to keep the blood toned up and the body's defenses in good order.

Dr. Williams' pink pills are sold by all druggists, or direct from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co. 96 Szechuen Road, Shanghai at $1.50 the bottle; $8.00 for 6 bottles, post free.

Exchange Market

Messrs. Maitland, Fearon and Brand's exchange circular for week ending Wednesday, Sept. 29 states:

Exchange:—The London price for "spot" Silver at 59⅜d. shows a drop of ½d. during the week. The price for forward delivery declined ⅞d. to 59⅛d.

In the absence of any great amount of business in connection with Imports and Exports, our exchange for T.T. on London has remained at 5s. 11d. for T.T. on London throughout the week.

Chinese operators have been busy with their Autumn Settlement and the Stock Exchange quarterly settlement in which they are interested, and exchange has in consequence been rather neglected by the native gold dealers. We close steady with rather more demand for Gold remittances than cover in the shape of Export paper.

Local stocks of Silver are reported as follows:

Sycee and Bar Silver Tls. 33,160,000 a decrease of Tls. 100,000.

Chinese and Mexican Dollars $27,710,000 an increase of $1,470,000.

How to Preserve the Teeth

In order to keep the teeth in a good condition scientific precaution must be taken. Through negligence, decay and numerous other affections such as tooth-ache, dental periostitis esteo-periostitis, necrose is of the jaw, etc., may arise. During the process of ingestion there are settled on the teeth, some deposits of mineral and organic matters, called tartar, which possesses a morbid power of pressing the gum. As an inevitable result of the presence of this tartar, the teeth will become elongated and movable and will, by degrees, absorb away the enamel, leading ultimately to the decay and degeneration of the teeth. The tartar is so hard and resistant to the process of brushing that it cannot be scraped off except with dental instruments specially devised for that purpose.

Dr. KINGMAN offers to the public his service for preserving their teeth at an annual subscription Fee of $10.00 per head to be paid in advance.

The work to be done by Dr. KINGMAN to the subscribers consists in:—

(1) Cleaning of the teeth quarterly
(2) Filling with gold platinum alloy only, when the teeth present holes.
(3) Inspecting the teeth at any time at the desire of the subscribers.

The Issue Made Clearer

THE sharpness of the issue between Gov. Cox and Senator Harding on the League of Nations becomes clearer as the campaign back home draws towards its close. In yesterday's paper we published a despatch from Los Angeles which said that Senator Johnson in a speech there declared that "if Senator Harding is elected the League of Nations is ended." He said that he wanted to make clear the attitude of the Republican party and its candidate.

What, we should like to ask, is the matter with the Republican Party and Senator Harding? Have they found it impossible to make their attitude clear? Have they run out of words or lost the power of speech? Or is it that they merely have failed to make the public understand what it is they stand for?

We had thought that they were for some sort of an association of nations at some future time and that they were against the present League of Nations. But Senator Johnson declares point blank that if Senator Harding is elected "the League of Nations is ended."

We think that Senator Johnson's remark, far from clarifying matters serves but further to mystify and confuse them. For the voters are likely to find this question arising in their minds: How can the election of Harding break up the League of Nations? Has Harding got a bomb up his sleeve with which he intends, in case of his election, to wreck the League? Or has he fashioned a monkey wrench which he proposes to toss into the League machinery? For certainly if Harding is in favor of some future association of nations, as he has claimed to be, he cannot bring that association into being without first destroying the present League. And, we ask again, how does he propose to destroy this one?

But now comes an answer to all these vital questions from the lips of Harding himself. Speaking in Baltimore, two nights after the speech by Senator Johnson, on Sept 28, he made this amazing confession:

"I am perfectly frank when I say that I am without a single program constructive in character, regarding an association of nations."

The American voters are thus asked to "buy a cat in a bag." Harding offers them no platform, no program. "Elect me," he says in effect, "and I'll try to think out something. Meantime I am too busy trying to get elected to think of anything else. I commit myself to nothing. When you elect me you elect me because I am Warren G. Harding and for no other reason."

And this is all that Harding has to say on the paramount issue! "I am without a single program constructive in character." Contrast this with the clearly spoken program of Gov. Cox, in his speech of acceptance:

"The first duty of the new administration clearly will be the ratification of the Treaty. A definite plan has been agreed upon. The League of Nations is in operation. The question is whether we shall or shall not join in this practical and humane movement. President Wilson as our representative at the peace table entered the League in our name, insofar as the executive authority permitted. Senator Harding, the Republican candidate for the presidency, proposes in plain words that we remain out of it. As the democratic candidate I favor going in."

Which will the American voters take? One frankly admits after months of campaigning that he has no constructive platform to offer the American public. He is willing to break up the present league but offers no substitute for it and has not even the power to break it up. The other candidate accepts the present league as the most powerful and logical movement ever devised for the preservation of the human race from war, which beyond question it is, and therefore declares that if he receives the mandate from the voters of America he will join it and support it.

The choice seems to us to lie between "Something" or "Nothing."

"The Pacific provides the stage of the world drama of the coming time."

Race War In Ireland

An Attempt To Apply History And Biology To The Peoples Of Britain's Other Island

BY M. HELY HUTCHINSON
(New York Tribune)

Four months ago in a crowded thoroughfare in Dublin a city magistrate, seventy years of age, was taken from a streetcar in which he was riding and murdered in broad daylight. Last week we read of fourteen armed men breaking into the Country Club at Cork, openly seeking their victim, an inspector of the Royal Irish Constabulary, and, after killing him with volleys from their revolvers, departing unchecked to their homes.

These are merely two isolated cases out of some seventy murders of police and other government officials in Ireland which have taken place under more or less similar circumstances in the course of the last two years. Certain features have been common to practically all these outrages—in nearly every case the victim has been a man who in the course of his work has performed some act or uttered some words directed against those who have pledged themselves to eliminate the British government from Ireland at any cost and by any means, or has been known by his enemies to have come into possession of information dangerous to their cause; and, furthermore, it has nearly always been impossible to bring to justice those directly concerned in the outrage.

From the very nature of these acts and their continual recurrence it is becoming abundantly clear that they are not mere outbursts of lawlessness or hooliganism. They are the acts of men who feel a very real sense of injustice. And the protection which the population has been affording to the perpetrators shows, even making allowance for the probability that a certain number of people have been terrorised into secrecy, how widespread this feeling has become.

RACIAL FACTS

Let us go beyond criticism, and consider the reason why no satisfactory and lasting solution of this problem has yet been reached. Let us examine the facts, and see if we can find in them what it is that has made the problem so perplexing to English statesmen ever since the end of the eighteenth century, when the principle of self-determination first began to challenge successfully the doctrine of "might is right" in the councils of the world.

The south and west of Ireland contain some three million inhabitants, who, with the exception of a thin, superficial layer of land owners whose estates have been greatly reduced in recent years, are practically all of Celtic origin. Their main occupation is agriculture; their religion overwhelmingly Roman Catholic (the land owning class, however, being mostly Protestant; their literature beautiful, but scanty, and their traditions mostly oral.)

On the other hand, the one million and odd people living in the northeastern part of Ireland—broadly speaking, the province of Ulster—are mostly of Lowland Scotch, and therefore Anglo-Saxon origin, the migration into Ulster having taken place after the population of England and the lowlands of Scotland had become more or less homogeneous; their occupations are industrial, shipbuilding and the manufacture of linen being among the leading industries; they are industrious and thrifty, have a higher standard of living than their Celtic neighbors, and their religion tends toward that pole of Protestantism furthest from Roman Catholicism, namely, Presbyterianism.

THE WESTERN ISLE

England and Scotland, with three times the area of Ireland, have a combined population ten times as great, which is overwhelmingly Anglo-Saxon in origin and Protestant in religion. It is noticeable that in all the successive invasions of the British Isles by races of Nordic origin—Scandinavian, Teutonic, Saxon—while the invaders in many cases settled permanently in England and became completely intermingled with the local tribes, no one of the impulses effected lasting racial penetration of more than the eastern fringe of Ireland. Even in more modern times when Cromwell led some of the already homogeneous inhabitants of England to conquest of the western isle, he only superimposed a thin layer of land owners upon the Celtic population already existing there.

The three million odd inhabitants of the south and west of Ireland, therefore, have since Neolithic times continued to be, and still are, of almost pure Celtic stock. The Celtic race is a part of the "Mediterranean" division of the human race, which formerly extended south of the Himalayas and westward in a narrow belt to the Atlantic, on both sides of the Inland Sea and over most of England and Ireland. The cultural development of this Celtic race has continually remained a stage, or rather several stages, behind that reached in England under the successive waves of Nordic invasion from northern Europe. In its aspirations, its view of life, its principles of civilisation, it is as different from the races of Nordic origin which inhabit England and the eastern part of Ireland as a Spaniard from a Dane. And herein lies the great and fundamental difficulty! Everything else—differences of religious faith, the bitterness caused by the Cromwellian usurpations of land in the seventeenth century (a fresh and open sore to a people among whom tradition is handed down by word of mouth from parent to child), the commercial restraints imposed by England upon Ireland in the eighteenth—are but aggravations of the great underlying cause of divison. There is no common meeting ground for the minds of Anglo-Saxon and Celt; no common basis for argument of right and wrong; no common goal to give to each an incentive for co-operation.

To what conclusion does this lead us? The Irish of the south and west of Ireland are surely entitled to "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness." In what respects are they debarred from this under present conditions? Of the conditions making for human happiness four, at least, are said to be essential—health, security, abundance and the opportunity for self-expression. Under the British government as it is now an Irishman has certainly the opportunity to obtain three out of these four. He can have both health and security and a reasonable measure of abundance if he works, but what he will always lack, so long as he is subject to Nordic institutions, is that part of happiness which comes from self-expression in its widest sense. As long as there is a British government in Ireland the Irishman will never feel entirely free from the sense that his opportunities for realising his ideals are under restraint, however just that government is (and no one with knowledge of the facts could, unless he be blinded by partisan feeling, deny that since 1850 the government of Ireland by England has been "just" in the sense that it has held all men equal before the law and denied freedom to no one who has obeyed the law), and while this feeling endures his discontent will continue to smoulder and will burst forth into flame every time that, through vacillation in England's policy, he catches a glimpse of the prize for which he yearns, only to suffer the bitter disappointment of having it snatched away just when he thought it within his grasp.

NORDIC POWER

Whether or no it can be justified on ethical grounds, it is a fact beyond question that the 43,000,000 Anglo-Saxons who inhabit England and the northeastern part of Ireland have the actual power to grant or withhold the emancipation which the 3,000,000 Celts of southern and western Ireland are seeking. Their decision in this matter is of interest to the whole Nordic race—of which America is a part—whose civilisation now dominates the entire world, with the exception of Japan and Central Asia. And the dilemma that confronts the Anglo-Saxon is simply this—whether, on the one hand, to admit in full the doctrine of self-determination and grant this little shoot of "Mediterranean" civilisation the opportunity to flourish and grow almost among the very roots of present-day Nordic civilisation, or, on the other hand, to seek a permanent solution in accord with the teaching of history and biology, and suffer the relentless forces of economic development to take its way as gently as may be—in other words, to permit a continuance of the state of affairs under which in the last seventy years the Celtic population of Ireland has been reduced by emigration from over 7,000,000 to barely 3,000,000 people.

The dilemma is not without parallel in American history. The motives which guided Andrew Jackson in dealing with the Cherokee Indians in Georgia in 1838 and the national indorsement of the annexation of Texas by the United States in 1845 are instances of acknowledgment of the inevitable nature of the expansion of dominant races.

In determining on a present policy it is necessary to have due regard to future probabilities and, as far as possible, to avoid allowing what ought to be to cloud the vision of what is. In the case we are considering, whatever ought to happen, it is hard to escape the conclusion that the thing which, in actual practice, is most likely ultimately to come to pass, whatever the conscious policy of England, is the more or less complete elimination, by economic processes of the Celtic stock in Ireland! and it is greatly to be feared that adoption of the principle of self-determination would amount only to deferring the operation of the economic law. But whatever is decided upon for the present, it is vital that the decision should be definite, and, when reached, made public in a clear and unmistakable manner.

CELTIC ASPIRATION

It may be suggested, as a temporary expedient: Why not grant to the south and west of Ireland their own government, and allow the northeast to remain in its present position under the British government? The answer to this is that the Celtic aspiration is for nothing short of the whole island; nothing less will satisfy them; and, moreover, there is the very practical consideration (which, however, I do not believe is the determining one in the mind of an Irish patriot) that the northeast, apart from its sentimental value, produces as much taxable wealth as the rest of Ireland put together. It is hardly necessary to add that the northeast is unwilling to have a minority representation in a Dublin Parliament controlled by the greater numbers of the poorer south and west.

The writer does not, however, presume to offer any immediate and practical solution of the problem, but seeks, rather, to stimulate inquiry into the fundamental factors which have made solution so difficult hitherto and to present for consideration the ethnological aspect of the situation. Whether it would be to the good of the world that in time "Nordic" civilisation should go under, and some form of "Mediterranean" civilisation, such as Celtic or Latin, come to the top, is a matter of abstract speculation with which few "Nordics" will be likely to concern themselves.

Conference On Exchange Is Vital

Italian Statesman And Economist Warns Nations Their Best Financial Leaders Must Get Together To Solve Pressing Problems

BY LUIGI LUZATTI

As far back as 1907, when the United States was suffering from the effects of the terrible crisis which reverberated in the capitals of the Continent, I approached the Institute of France with a view of showing the necessity of coming to some international agreement on the subject of the exchanges. But at that time few members of the Institute realised the importance of the question, and my communication was forgotten as soon as read.

Again in 1916 I explained at the Luxemburg Palace (the French Senate House) my scheme for the establishment of such an agreement, but neither France nor England was at that time affected by "exchange sickness," and my warning fell upon deaf ears.

Now that the system of exchanges has become increasingly critical and the community of misfortune has opened our eyes to the dangers ahead, the Allies should surely seek to bring about a community of remedy. We should be unworthy to lead the new Europe which has sprung from the war if we are unable to solve the exchange problems, which are of the greatest material interest to all classes of the community, and in particular to the wage-earning classes, who are beginning to understand the connection that exists between the high cost of living and the question of the foreign exchange.

URGES WORLD CONFERENCE

"Let me recapitulate what I have persistently advocated, that the Allies, the neutrals and even our late enemies should each appoint their best Treasury officials and leading bankers to meet together at some quiet place, far removed from political influences, and there form a permanent committee intrusted with the important work of regulating, as far as possible, the great monetary currents of the world."

Any huge financial conference, composed of all shades of incompetent politicians, representing either "interests" or "lack of interests," would be worse than useless while our modern society has suffered too much from verbal promises to listen to official speeches unless they can be coined at once into practical realities.

It will, of course, be asked where we are to find these men who are never to speak unless they can at once act upon their speeches? Let me attempt to make a reply. The exchange evil is so great as to be without precedent, for this is the first time that the height of the exchanges has divided the world into a majority of nations suffering from heavily depreciated money, and a minority of nations who are making a profit—even if it is more apparent than real—out of the majority in consequence of the inflation of the exchange.

AMERICANS MAKE PROPOSAL

This exchange evil has brought forth several attempts to remedy it, all of which merit examination, consideration and amendment. There is the Belgian proposal issued with semi-official authority. Then there is the proposal put forward by the American bankers, who are able to exercise a decisive influence with the United States Government. There are probably, too, other schemes which have not yet been made public, but which I assume have been elaborated by learned technicians of the Bank of England, the Bank of France, the Bank of Italy, and the National Bank of Belgium, not to speak of the Reichsbank or of consortiums of German bankers.

PLAN IS EXPLAINED

My own scheme is based upon the establishment of an International Chamber of Compensation or, if you like it better, an International Clearing House for foreign exchanges, in which all differences between nations would be settled by checks very much on the same principle on which the London Bankers' Clearing House settles all differences between its members.

My scheme would be to coordinate all the National Commercial Clearing Houses (imports and exports) with International Clearing Houses. It would create an institution very much resembling that admirable international concern, the International Postal Union Institute, which up to the time of the war worked so smoothly at Geneva.

Like the International Postal Institute, my scheme for an International Exchanges Institute would deal with the debit and credit balances of all the nations. The settlement of these credit and debit balances would be operated by means of a loan, issued and guaranteed in common, and which should logically be the necessary consequence of the treaty come to, whereby Germany and the other vanquished nations have contracted certain debts toward the victorious nations.

WARNS UNITED STATES

Let not the happy United States which have absorbed, and still absorb the gold of all the debtor States forget the story of King Midas. Let them not renew the adventure of Spain, which after the discovery of gold and silver mines of America began to decay. The high price of the things necessary to existence is caused by the super-abundance of paper money as well as of real money; and super-abundance of forced paper currency will prove a permanent hindrance to the exports of countries which, like the United States, are flooded with gold and silver.

I make no pretense at being infallible. Therefore, if the formula which I have so repeatedly put forward before authorised bodies does not meet with general approval, take any other formula which has a chance of obtaining general consent. Every solution offered as regards the problem of the exchanges is of a technical character and pre-supposes an economic elevation of mind, a moral attempt of actions to overcome the debasement resultant from nearly five years of human slaughter.

HARD WORK NECESSARY

It is essential that the nations shall make an effort to devote themselves to hard work, to saving, to retrenchment, and to self-sacrifice. The necessity of preserving the integrity and the safety of the State must take the place of the individual egoisms which now prevail.

Every citizen, as a taxpayer, must consider the necessity of saving the Commonwealth, for in so doing he saves his private subsistence. In fact, if the war brought out a multitude of acts of lay heroism, created an army of secular martyrs who died for the good of their fatherland, so now peace requires acts of heroism, but of another character, if the community is to be preserved from the great perils which threaten it.

Literature Has Its Uses! -:- By Ed Streeter

(Author of The Famous Dere Mable Letters)

Deer Sun,

Yure leter of the 2nd instantly is in hand. I dont understand why you want to study Inglish all the rest o the time yure in colege. Seems like followin the line o leased resistence, as the fello says when he fell down stares. Inglish was about all you knew when you went to colege. It seems to bad to come out the same way.

As fer this bisnis o bein a man o leters, as you call it, judgin by them you send me I'd give up the idear. I just read em all agen. I'd say you had more talent fer bein a colector. It aint that I object to literchoor. I don't, cause I owe a lot to it. Yure granfather, who, as I ofen told you, was my father before me, made me read a chapter in the "Pilgrim's Prowess" whenever I was late anywheres. Today I got the reputashun o bein the most punkshual man in town. An Dandy's "Inferno" once saved me from the worst tannin he ever give me—though it spoiled the book.

My advise to you, my boy, is if you want to make yure livin with yure pen come home an raise hogs. There was a time when two thirds o the folks did nothin but work an one third did nothin at all. Those was the days fer writers. Theyd sit around in their father-in-laws front parlur an scratch away with a fether pen til theyd piled up a book as big as the Milford city direcktory. Then the third what didn't do nothin would all read it an fite dools over which writer could make the best discripshun of a sun set.

That's all changed. If you want to write today you don't shut yurself up with a lot o books. You go over the falls in a bath tub or around the wurld on a raft or make a milyun dolars without workin fer it. As soon as you get famus you begin writin.

If Capen Kidd, an Jonah Vark, the French officer what did so well before Fosh, an the Simese Twins an P. T. Barnum had been alive now theyd have been the boys youd be readin. Take Sir Walter Rollo frinstance. He would have made his forchune out o that overcoat afair.

Yure cusin Bert Snoppin was over from Milford last week. I don't guess youd know him. He aint been in Milford long. Fust he was a miner. Then he was a carpenter. The work got to heavy fer him so he moved to Milford an set up as a dentist. He's a great sport an sharpern a tack. It makes yure muther figety. She can tell when he's funnin an when he's talkin strait. Like the day he got here he says he needed a rest cause a dentists work got on the nerves so. Yure muther says a man like that wont come to no good end.

I didnt know him when he fust came. He used to dress clumsy an had a beard. He says when he took up dentistin he had to cut off the beard. It got in his costumers eyes.

Now he's as smart dresser as you'd want to see. Takin off his beard made him spruce up I guess, bein more out in the public, as it was. He wears cloth top shoes to match his neckties an woosted vests an carries two rist watches. One on em tells Standard time an the other Paducah.

This bisnis of savin daylight has created a lot o ill feelin in this seckshun. When it fust came out there was a meetin of all the towns hereabouts. Things went nice till Hurrahsho Briggs what was representin Ivydale, got up an says he wasn't goin to let Paducah nor no place like it dicktate what time it was in Ivydale. This started the row an everybody set up different time just out o spite. Things is so mixed up now that when Mint Pebble drove over from Ivydale to Acropolis tother afternoon he found everybody in bed. He went to see Amos Rugg bout a hoss. Mrs. Rugg stuck her head outen the windo an says he warent nuthin but a wuthless ol rapscalyun to be wanderin round that hour o night.

Besides bein a sport yure Cusin Bert is a great hand to entertane. He plays "Anny Lowry" an "The Last to Rosa Summer" something butiful on the flute. He used to know "Turky in the Straw," but he says cigeroots has got him. Coupel o nights ago they had him playin over at the church festivul. It made everybody sad cepin of Capin Juniper whats deef as a post an dodderin. The Capin was dozin in the back o the room. When Bert was finished he woke up an says "I think I hear the wind ablowin up a storm." Some thought he said it jest to be cantankerus.

Berts good at tricks to. We ast company in one night sos he could show off some o them. Fust thing he done was to borry a gold watch from Pooch Frisbee. Then he wraps it up in a hankechif, lays it on the floor an pounds it with a hamer. Everybody laffed cause o course we all knew he wasn't really poundin the watch. Bert must a been fussed up tho cause when he undid the hankechif there was Pooches watch all pounded into pouder. We was all kind o nervus but Pooch just laffed an says he was glad he hadn't lent. Bert his own watch. This was one Squire Freeman had give him to take up Milford way an have fixed anyways.

You say you dont know if you'll come home Crismus or not. I dont like to here you talk like that. Never be undecided even if you are. When yure not sure of a thing just decide the fust way that comes to you. Like as not all ways is wrong. Just remember the world is always willin to take its orders from the fella that says he knows. Not knowin themselves they cant prove yure wrong.

Im afraid you take after yure granfather on yure mothers side. He got so in the habit o lookin at all sides of a questshun that hed get dizzy makin up his mind. Towards the end he got so bad he couldn't do more than one thing a day. When he was through with that he was all wore out just from decidin. He used to spend the evening decidin when hed go to bed an most o the mornin decidin when hed get up. I've known him to lay awake half the night tryin to make up his mind if hed say his prayers or not. Yure granfather woulda been a very religus man if he could ever have made up his mind what church he wanted to belong to.

I remember once he came out to the barn an argued with me half a day as to whether hed best walk down to the post office an get the male or whether it would be less grubel to hitch in the mare an drive the buggy down. Long about sundown he hitched in the mare an started. He was awful upset tho. Before he got there he decided it would a been better if hed walked. So he lef the mare down at the post office an walked home.

Yure Cusin Bert wanted to send you somethin nice for a present. He aint been able to think o what colege boys like tho. So he made out the slip which I'm puttin in. When you come back on yure vakeashun you can take it around to his office in Milford an he'll fill two teeth for you free without chargin a cent.

Yures faithlessly,
AMOS H. AMESBY,
Fath.

Not A Bit Better

"This book," remarked the house-to-house merchant, as he dexterously insinuated one foot in the doorway, "is well named 'The Mother's Guide.' With its aid you can bring up your children properly."

His victim examined the binding and felt the weight of the book. Then she gripped it by the edge with her right hand and brought it down—whack—on the other.

To the astonished salesman she appeared to be trying to see how convenient it was to handle, but for what purpose?

"I don't think I'll take one," she remarked a last. "I'm sure it's no better than an ordinary slipper!"

Antiquity Of The Greyhound

Probably the oldest family of dogs in the world are greyhounds. They figure on Egyptian frescoes of the early Pharaohs, were used for coursing by the Greeks, and a fine Antoine sculpture in the British Museum of two greyhounds fondling each other proves that they were appreciated by the Romans.

They were favorites with almost all the English kings, from Canute to Charles I., and King John repeatedly took greyhounds instead of money for payment of the penalties he inflicted. Until 1853 a special tax of twenty-two shillings each was levied on greyhounds to place them beyond the reach of democracy.

Love's Bestowal

BY ANGELA MORGAN

What shall my love be to the world?
What shall my love, thwarted in its beginning,
Be to the desert world?
Shall I lie in the smothering sand all day
Crying, "Woe is me"?
Shall I cover my body and soul with sand?
Shall I wail as others wail under the brassy sky,
"No God, no love, nor rescue anywhere"?
Nay, I shall never basely say, "There is no God!"
Under the lovely desert stars I shall not dare deny;
Under the cooling stars I am too brave to die.
I, who have tasted water, shall not faint nor rest
Till I again have found that ecstasy.
I, who have tasted water, know that God is good,
And I shall gird my soul and lift my heart,
Singing the Truth amid the desert waste.
Yea, I have loved! And that one crystal drink
Beckons beyond the parched and prostrate hour.
I shall not cease nor tarry till the world
Drinks of the same divine, enchanted stream,
Nor till that cool delirium has spread
Its saving waters over all the earth
I shall not courage yield.
I, who have touched the lips of Life, shall never rest
Till all the desert lives.
I, who have seen the blossom and the bird, may never tire
Until the desert blooms!

THE FIRST ATHLETES

The Greeks were among the first to insist on gymnastics as part of the early training of the child. They acted on the principle of "a sound mind in a sound body," and thus the moral training of the young was included in the physical work carried on in the gymnasium. At the religious festivals a feature was made of public games, for which the athletes were carefully prepared at the expense of the State. Swimming, wrestling, leaping and running were the chief exercises. In later centuries the attention paid to athletic exercise decreased, but in recent years there has been a revival in every country.

She came from Arizona. But there wasn't anything arid about her. She had more snap than a barrel of ginger.
MABEL NORMAND

A lively lass lassoes love!
The devil's in her eye—the angel's in her heart.
AT THE APOLLO
Zowie, what a wild and Woolly Lady!

Her Middle name was "Pep"
And when she hit the trail for New York and high society—Oh Boy—Silk stockinged Social gals lost their breath and high-hatted Harolds lost their heads.
SAY, YOU'LL JUST LAUGH YOURSELF INTO HYSTERICS.
Stake your claim to a good seat at the Apollo, commencing Thursday this week, and watch Mabel Normand as "Pinto" take the sigh out of society. It's a Goldwyn picture.
